REICH MINISTER'S SECRET VISIT TO ITALY

MYSTERY PLAN FOR WORKLESS

MR. BALDWIN'S HINTS

WHETS APPETITE FOR MORE INFORMATION

London, Nov. 4.
A Government scheme designed to deal with the whole problem of the able-bodied unemployed was foreboded by Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Lord President of Council, in the course of a speech at the Constitutional Club, London, this evening.

Mr. Baldwin said the Government hoped to be in a position to enact the scheme by next summer. He added that the plans had not been finally completed, but it might be possible to include some details of the proposals in the King's Speech on November 22, when the new session of Parliament is formally opened.

HALF A CENTURY.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin expressed the hope that the Conservative Party would help to evolve a just scheme capable of standing the test for the next quarter or half-century.

In the meantime, he added, the Means Test, which has aroused so much hostility, must stay, though the anomalies and hardships of its operation would be modified.

Mr. Baldwin's hint of a scheme for the unemployed has whetted appetites for more information, particularly in view of its suggested long-term nature.—Reuter.

BRITISH TARIFF PARLEYS

SWEDISH & GERMAN INTEREST

London, Nov. 3.
The Swedish delegation which is coming to London for tariff conversations is expected to arrive during the middle of next week.

In the House of Commons today, the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Runciman, said he did not anticipate that general negotiations with the German Government on tariff matters would begin for some little time. The recently-increased German duty on salted herrings had been discussed between the fishing interests of the two countries, and it was hoped that proposals for mutual concessions of a satisfactory nature might result.—British Wireless.

PREMIER'S EYE TROUBLE

DISAPPOINTMENT FOR LORD MAYOR

London, Nov. 3.
Mr. Ramsay MacDonald will not attend the Lord Mayor's Banquet in London on November 9 on medical advice and also because of the pressure of work which leaves little or no time for functions at which the artificial light and smoke harms the eyesight. It is stated, last there be any alarm, that the Prime Minister's general health is good, but after the eye operation of a few months ago, he was ordered to rest until the end of the year.—Reuter.

The Royal Observatory reports that a weak anticyclone covers North China. The depression has moved eastward to the north of Korea. Moderate monsoon will prevail over the Northern China Sea. Local forecast:—N.E. winds, moderate; fine.

ON SAFARI AGAIN

HUNT TRIP BY DUKE OF GLOUCESTER

VISIT TO SUDAN

London, Nov. 3.
The Duke of Gloucester, the King's third son, will leave England shortly after Christmas for a shooting trip in the Sudan.

He will be away from England for two or three months. The Duke is a Captain in the 10th Hussars and the trip will be taken during a normal period of leave.

He has made two earlier hunting expeditions to Africa. In 1928 he accompanied the Prince of Wales on safari in East and South Africa when the expedition was interrupted on account of the King's illness.

In 1930, after representing the King at the Coronation of the King of Abyssinia, he spent some time hunting in that country.

The present trip will be of an unofficial nature, unaccompanied by ceremonial. He will probably pay a short private visit to Khartoum as the guest of Sir John Maffey, the Governor-General of the Sudan. Captain Brook, the well-known big game hunter and Extra Equerry will accompany the Duke.—British Wireless.

INSULL CRASH

GREECE AGAIN ASKED TO MAKE ARREST

Washington, Nov. 3.
The United States representative in Athens has been instructed to ask the Greek authorities to arrest Samuel Insull pending extradition proceedings.

Mr. Insull is wanted in America to answer questions regarding the $2,000,000,000 collapse of the Insull utility organisation. He has been able to defy extradition hitherto owing to the non-existence of a Greece-American Extradition Treaty. Washington pushed on negotiations and a treaty was signed a few days ago.

Charges of embezzlement and larceny will be faced by Mr. Samuel Insull if the American authorities succeed in getting him to Chicago.—Reuter.

CATHEDRAL'S RESTORATION

THANKSGIVING AT LINCOLN

London, Nov. 3.
The Duke and Duchess of York today attended a thanksgiving service in Lincoln Cathedral to mark the successful termination of eleven years' work in restoring the Cathedral's ancient fabric. The work was carried out at a cost of $130,000.—British Wireless.

SENSATION IN PARIS

VON SCHLEICHER'S JOURNEY

INTERVIEW WITH SIGR. MUSSOLINI

(Our Own Correspondent).

London, Nov. 3.
A sensational story of a secret meeting between Sigr. Mussolini and General von Schleicher, the German Minister of Defence, generally regarded as the real power in Germany, is prominently featured in a leading Paris newspaper this morning.

The Milan correspondent of the Journal des Debats "guarantees" the authenticity of the startling report. He says the meeting took place place a few weeks ago. General von Schleicher made a secret journey to Italy, his departure being known only to members of the German Cabinet and to the Fascist Grand Council. An appointment was made with Sigr. Mussolini at Milan. The Italian Premier was accompanied at the secret interview by Sigr. Gazzeri, the Italian Minister for War.

NO WRITTEN AGREEMENT.

The Milan correspondent of the Journal des Debats declares that "all kinds of eventualities" were discussed, but that no written agreement was reached.

No denial of the report has yet been issued by the German Foreign Office and there is considerable speculation regarding the purpose of the secret visit, if it was made, as suggested.

ARMS CLAIM.

It may be taken for granted that General von Schleicher did not go to discuss the reprisals taken by Italy for German measures to safeguard the Reichsmark, though this matter has been agitating both parties. Italy ordered its banks to stop payments in lire due to German importers, but to place the money in blocked account, not leaving Italy. Germany had earlier given notice of the regulation of the amount of marks which were to leave Italy in the form of lire.

It is generally considered that the visit of the German Defence Minister must have been connected with Germany's demand for equality in armaments, which claim Italy has been tending to support in principle.

JAPAN'S NAVAL PROPOSALS

REJECTION OF HOOVER PLAN AND BRITAIN'S PROPOSALS

Tokyo, Nov. 4.
Strict secrecy is being maintained regarding the nature of the new disarmament proposals just formulated by Japan and it is not even clear whether they comprise a complete clear-cut plan, like the Hoover Plan, or whether they simply amount to detailed instructions for the guidance of the Japanese delegates at Geneva. It seems certain that the Japan-

CHANGCHUN BOMB RUMOURS

ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF PU YI

YOUNG WOMAN ARRESTED

Peking, Nov. 4.

Sensational rumours concerning an attempt on the life of Henry Pu Yi, the former Manchu Emperor and now head of the Manchukuo Government at Changchun, also suggesting the arrest of the alleged assailant, a young Chinese woman student, have come to hand from Changchun.

Official circles in Peking incline to believe the reports and suggest that Manchukuo authorities have attempted to suppress the news regarding the attempted assassination, which took place some days ago. It first came to light when Manchukuo authorities arrested the young woman student, who is about twenty years old, and who is now said to be in prison awaiting her trial.

It is understood that the woman threw a bomb which failed to explode.—Special.

CLERK'S ALLEGED EMBEZZLEMENT

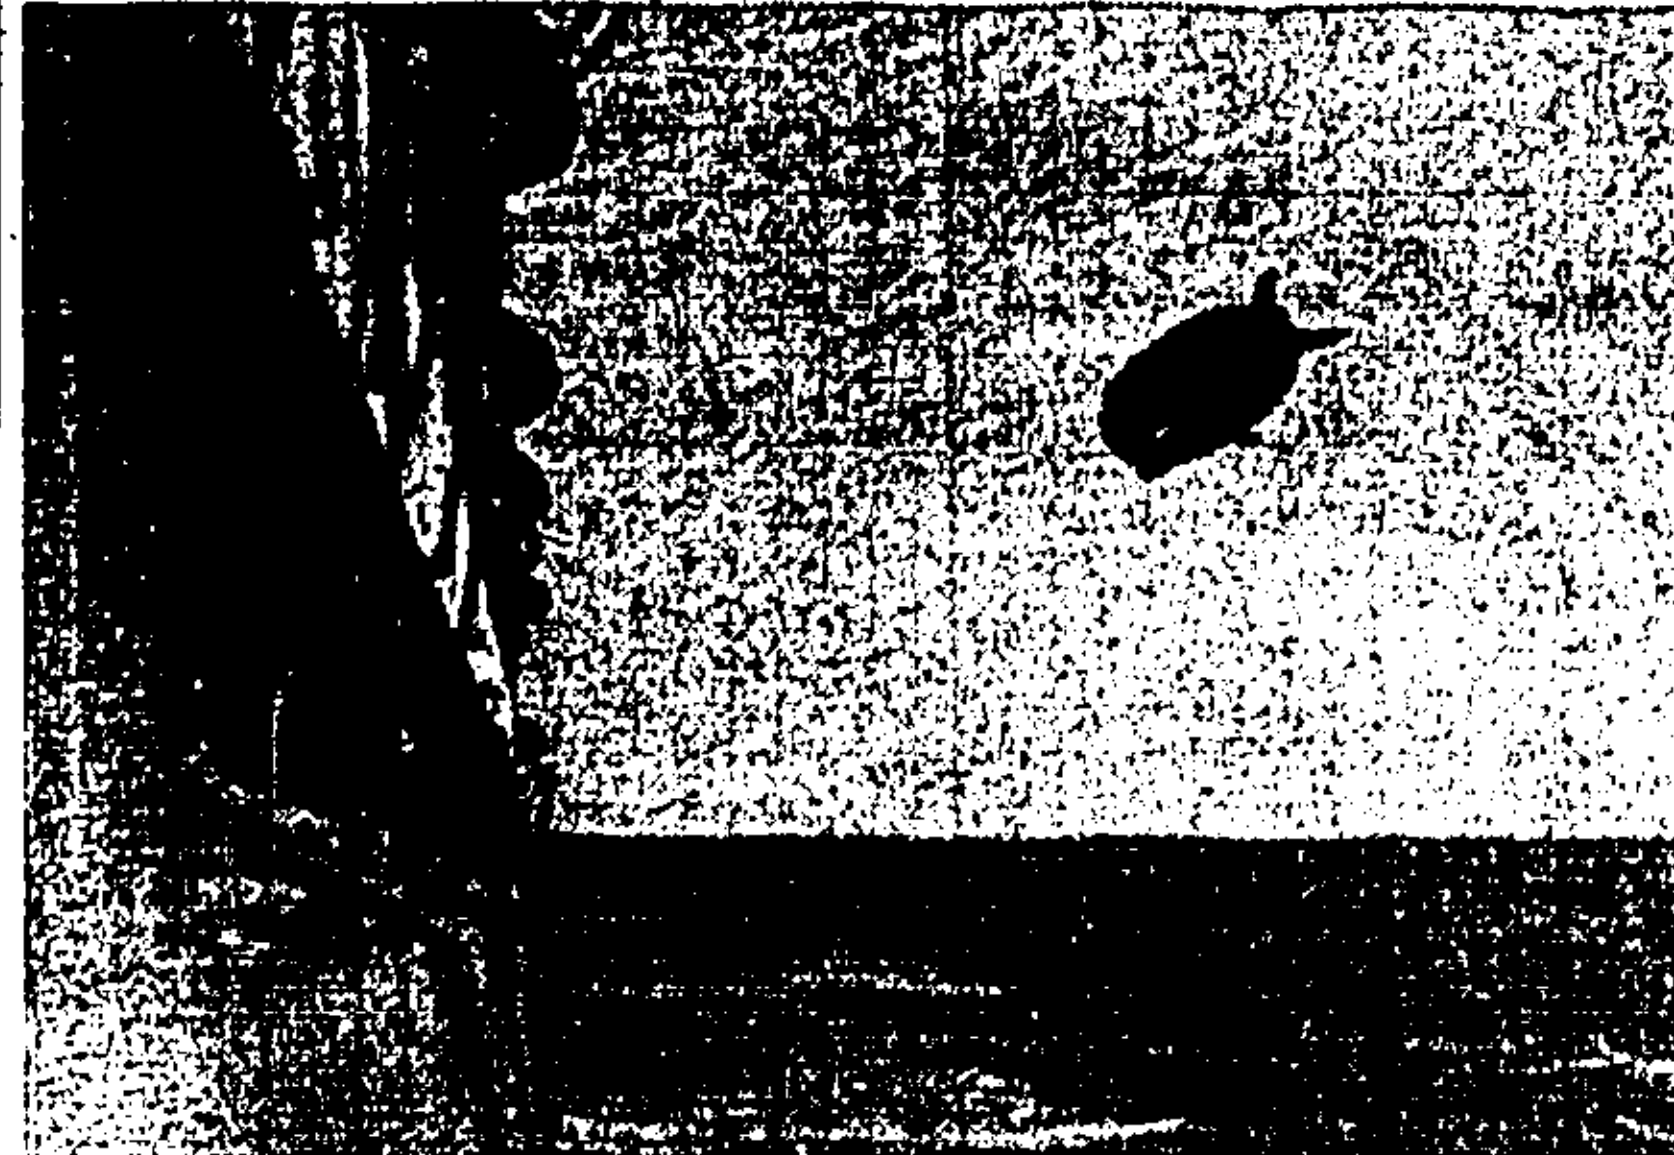

A FURTHER REMAND GRANTED

Appearing for Lau Kau, a clerk formerly employed at Messrs. Thomas Cook & Son's office, who is charged with embezzlement of $13,253, Mr. J.K. Lau told Mr. Kennedy Skipton at the Central Police Court this morning that he desired a week's remand with a view to getting into touch with accused's relatives from the country for restitution to be effected to the complainants. Mr. Lau said he understood that his client had made certain admissions.

Detective Sergeant Byron did not oppose the application, and the case was again adjourned for a week.

Mr. F. H. Losely is watching the case for the prosecution.

The itinerary for the proposed tour to Canton and Macao by the French Commander-in-Chief, Vice-Admiral Bellet, has been changed. Instead of departing by the French gunboat Argus for Canton to-morrow, Vice-Admiral Bellet will leave Hongkong by train. The Argus has already left for Canton.

A remarkable photo showing the Graf Zeppelin in mid Atlantic on a return flight to Germany from South America. It was taken from the deck of the s.s. Almazora, a Royal Mail liner.

ZEPPELIN HOME AGAIN

TWENTY-NINTH VOYAGE ACROSS ATLANTIC

CRAFT'S UNIQUE RECORD

(Our Own Correspondent).

London, Nov. 3.
Colonel the Master of Sempill, the British airship enthusiast, was among the passengers aboard the Graf Zeppelin when the great dirigible arrived safely at Friedrichshafen this afternoon back from her ninth and last trip across the Atlantic to South America this year.

Every one of her trips this year has been accomplished without untoward incident of any kind and it is proposed next year to increase the number of her flights to South America to fifteen.

The probability is being discussed of a new departure, namely the making of a stop each way somewhere in Spain. The choice of landing ground will probably fall upon Seville.

CHEAPER FARES.

On the trip from South America just completed the Graf Zeppelin carried twenty-one passengers, and all were delighted with the experience and the smoothness of the unusual voyage.

Next year, Dr. Eckener, the commander of the Graf Zeppelin, proposes to increase accommodation aboard her to provide for forty passengers and the fares will be greatly reduced.

REMARKABLE CAREER.

The Graf Zeppelin has a remarkable record, far surpassing anything achieved by any other airship. Altogether she has flown 320,000 miles, including twenty-nine Atlantic crossings, a complete journey round the world, via Russia and Japan, and a remarkable flight to the Arctic.

In the course of her journeyings, the Graf Zeppelin has carried more than 7,500 passengers. She is now about nine years old. In plans for new Zeppelins of a bigger type outlined some months ago, it was suggested that their useful life would be about two years, though this was taking in account a proposal for one transatlantic trip every week.

THE CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS

BRITAIN'S NEW LOAN

LISTS CLOSED IN 3 HOURS

BUT GOVERNMENT STOCKS FALL

London, Nov. 3.
The subscription lists for the new £300,000,000 three per cent. conversion loan, which opened at nine o'clock this morning, were closed three and a quarter hours later.

It is understood that the loan has been largely oversubscribed. Although the lists had been closed, investors were still able to subscribe through the Post Office. Such applications were, however, limited to £1,000 each but were assured of full allotment provided they were lodged some time today.

The success of to-day's issue completes the remarkable refinancing programme which started a little over four months ago. Beginning with £2,000,000,000 of five per cent. war loan, Britain's internal indebtedness has been cleared of all issues carrying interest excessively high under the existing conditions.

In the Commons this afternoon, the Chancellor of Exchequer, in reply to a question, stated that the estimated saving due to the conversion operations was something over £38,000,000 annually in a full year.

British Government stocks opened with a weaker tendency to-day after the substantial rises which followed the announcement of the loan. There was a rally when lists were closed but profit taking accounted for later falls. War loan assented closed at 99½, Consols 2½½ at 74 and Consols 4½ at 108½.—British Wireless.

CONTINUITY OF POLICY

MR. CHAMBERLAIN AND OTTAWA

ARGUES AGAINST FREE WILL

London, Nov. 3.

The old and hackneyed arguments for and against Protection were raked up to-night during the final debate on the Ottawa Agreements Bill.

The House of Commons was crowded for the discussion, but the Opposition were overwhelmed. The third reading of the Bill was approved by 418 votes to 68.

The only interesting feature of the discussion was the stress laid by Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the necessity for continuity of policy.

RETURNS TO OLD SUBJECT.

Mr. Chamberlain returned to the subject raised by the Labour Party yesterday when they sought to insert a new clause providing that nothing in the Bill should prevent a reduction of the general ad valorem rate of ten per cent. It will be recalled that Mr. Hore-Belisha, the Government spokesman, declared that the new clause was unnecessary and took the line that there was nothing to prevent any new Government from abandoning the whole of the Ottawa Agreements if they chose.

LIBERTY RESTRICTION.

Mr. Neville Chamberlain disagreed with Mr. Hore-Belisha on this point. He insisted upon continuity of policy and argued that it would be no breach of the Constitution that a new government, wishing to change the Ottawa Agreements, should have to wait two years or so for their expiration.

The Empire, he said, could rightly rely upon continuity of policy, which must be maintained if Britain was to retain respect. Although Parliament was entitled to alter the duties, it was extremely unlikely that it would do so.—Reuter.

HARBOUR TRAGEDY FEARED

MOTHER & DAUGHTER MISSING

Grave fears are entertained by the police for the safety of two women, mother and daughter, comprising the crew of a sampan, who have disappeared from their craft at Laichikok. They have vanished without a trace, and foul play is suspected by the fact that jewellery and money, which they are known to have possessed, are also missing.

A young boatwoman, named Ho Cho-mui, friend of the missing women, first communicated her fears to the police and this caused them to drag the harbour bed this morning in the expectation of bringing their bodies to the surface.

Ho Cho-mui told the police that she last saw the two women as they pulled out from Shamshui on taking two men who desired to be put alongside a junk off Chung-shawan. At least that was what she heard the two men tell the women when they set out shortly after nine o'clock last night.

Three hours later, the boat had not returned, and becoming anxious, Ho Cho-mui set out in her own boat, on a search. She discovered the missing sampan drifting aimlessly off Laichikok. It was empty. Of the two women, there was no sign.

The crewless boat was towed back to Yau-mati, and searched by the police. Signs of a struggle were apparent, while certain trinkets owned by the two women could not be found.

Lady Kelly, wife of the Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Sir Howard Kelly, arrived here this morning from Shanghai aboard the P. and O. liner Rajpootana, accompanied by her daughter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

Bridge is always a battle of wits and when experts are seated on all four sides of the table the battle frequently begins on the

The Bidding.

South and West passed, and North opened the bidding with one diamond. East passed and South bid one no trump, remembering that North's opening bid in third position might be rather weak. North rebid the diamond suit, thereby showing his partner that he had a hand of considerable strength.

South bid two no trump and North closed the bidding with a declaration of three no trump.

The Play.

The obvious lead from the West hand was the king of clubs, on which East played the eight spot.
While these plays were being made South had rapidly counted her sure tricks as four diamonds, two spades, one heart and one club.

She might procure the ninth trick by finding the king of diamonds or the king of hearts favourably placed, but she would be relieved of all danger if West could be induced to lead a club to the second trick.

Declarer knew East to be short in clubs, but West had no way of knowing that and would probably read the eight as a signal to continue the suit.
Therefore Mrs. Black played the four, carefully holding up the deuce, so West would place that card in his partner's hand and would surely read the eight for a come-on. However, West knew the declarer to be a shrewd player and the bidding indicated that the clubs were stopped twice in her hand. Therefore West shifted to a diamond on which dummy played low and East won the trick with the king.

He returned the nine of clubs,
on which declarer played the ace, discarding a small spade from dummy. She now led the ten of diamonds, overtaking with the jack in dummy and continuing with the ace and queen of diamonds, on which she discarded a small club and a small heart. She cautiously refrained from leading the last diamond in the dummy, for that would subject her own hand to an embarrassing squeeze.

Instead she led the ace of spades, followed by a small spade, which West was obliged to win with the king. West was now in an impossible position. To lead a club would establish declarer's jack and a heart lead would enable her to make the queen of that suit for the much needed ninth trick.

He selected a small heart, which declarer won in her own hand with the queen and cashed the queen of spades, the ace of hearts and the last diamond to fulfill her three no trump contract.

CALL of the WEST

By R. G. MONTGOMERY

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

Stan Ball, an agent for cattle interests, faces Asper, Delo in his office. Ball accuses Delo of having men shot who are sent out to check his timbering activities at Three Rivers. Ball says he is making a personal check. Delo says he will personally see that Ball does not make the check.

Upon leaving Delo's office, Ball saves a girl from kidnappers. She proves to be Delo's daughter, Donna. When Ball learns her name he tells her he is Stanley Black and slips away.

Dudley Winters, in love with Donna, agrees to go to Three Rivers and get Delo to come back. Donna goes with him and at their first stop Dudley produces a marriage licence and urges Donna to marry him, arguing that Delo will not go on a manhunt if they do. Donna barely misses the marriage by meeting Ball on his way to Three Rivers.

At the camp, Swergin, Asper's timber boss, tries to make Donna stay in camp. She slips away from men he has ordered to watch her and Delo. She sees her father again and, about Swergin, comes to her rescue. Dudley and Swergin both warn her not to ride alone as Ball will attack her as he has her father. Donna goes out again and when she starts back finds she is followed.

CHAPTER XIII.

As the realization came to Donna that she was not armed she set her spurs deep into the roan's flanks. She would give her pursuer a race he would remember. The roan flattened his ears and leaped away. Donna did not try to guide his powerful stride nor did she pull in on his bit. Her lips were parted and her eyes sparkled with the zest of the run.

Down through the young spruce the roan thundered, his steel-shod hoofs showering loose stones from the trail. Donna could hear her pursuer racing along through the second-growth timber on her left. He was riding a good horse because the roan was sprinting at a terrific speed but was not pulling away.

The rider on the left edged ahead, then suddenly burst from cover and out in upon Donna. As he swung to grip her bridle reins she gave a gasp of surprise. The rider was Ginter. Swergin and he was plainly angry. Donna felt a flush of colour mount into her cheeks as she met his eyes. What right had he to stop her?

Swergin pulled the roan to a panting halt. "Didn't I tell you not to ride out of camp?" he snapped.

"Just when did you start giving me orders?" Donna was suddenly very angry.

Swergin jerked the roan's head up. "I'm taking you back to camp," he stated grimly.

"You are not! I am returning to camp when I get ready."

Donna's temper was roused. Swergin had apparently ridden out simply to bring her back. If there had been any apparent danger she might have gone back with him but his attitude seemed unreasonable.

Swergin sensed her objection. "You heard those shots?"

Donna suddenly remembered the rifle shots and nodded. She was still angry but she wanted to know who had done the shooting.

"I came upon Ball. He was trailing you. We had a little argument with lead." Swergin's lips twisted into a half smile.

"Did you hit him?" Donna asked eagerly, her anger forgotten for the second.

"I must have winged him. He went out of the picture right now. Next time I'll drill him clean."

Swergin's little eyes lighted up queerly.

"We'll have to go back and find him," Donna spoke her decision. She wanted to see Ball and this seemed a fine chance to capture him.

"I'm taking you back to camp. Then I'll come out and finish the job I started." Swergin pulled up on the roan's head and made as if to start toward camp.

Donna's anger flared up again. "We're going to bring that man in! You act as though I were incompetent or a child." With a jerk she freed the roan's head and set him back on his hind feet.

Swergin leaned far out of his saddle and with one huge arm swept Donna clear of her saddle. With the other hand he cut the roan smartly across the hips with his saddle quirt. The horse snorted and leaped away and Donna found herself swept to the saddle in front of Swergin.

Her struggles did not disturb his solid balance in the least. Grimly he pushed his horse down the trail while Donna choked down her wrath and kept silent. There was little use in arguing with the big timber boss.

They rode into camp and up to the wide porch in front of the main building. Dudley came running down the steps as he saw them coming. He held up his arms to Donna but she slid to the ground unassisted. Like a flash she whirled upon her uninvited rescuer. Her blue eyes blazed black and she swung the light quirt that hung at her wrist. With a wicked snap she slashed out with it and struck Swergin across the cheek. The rawhide lashes on the quirt left purple welts across his wind-hardened skin.

Swergin did not move a muscle but his eyes hardened. Slowly his lips pulled into a grin. "You're a little hell-cat when you can't have your way," he said slowly.

Dudley, who had stepped back at Donna's sudden action, crowded close to Swergin's stirrup. "What have you been up to?" he flared.

Swergin bent low and his grin vanished. "If you had any brains or any sand you'd watch this kid and keep her out of the timber."

I ought to plant one right on your pretty nose! You need something to bring you around."

Dudley opened his mouth twice but he was too angry to speak. Donna pulled him back.

"We're going inside, Dud. I'll settle with this fellow later."

Swergin bowed and rode away without any trace of concern. Donna unable to control herself, burst out. "He acts as though he owned the works at Three Rivers!"

MOONLIGHT, a picturesque mountain camp, a pretty girl and a dashing cowboy. With such romantic elements of course there's a love story in "Call of the West" by R. G. Montgomery. There's adventure and excitement too in this thrilling new serial.

"I would have taken a punch at him but he has been of service to you and your father," Dudley grinned. "Boy, you're a knockout when you're mad, D!"

Donna halted just inside and door. She held Dudley away with one hand while she smoothed her wind-ruffled hair with the other. Her anger vanished rapidly and she joined Dudley's laugh.

"I guess I'll have to take it all back and be nice to him. But the way he bosses me around makes me furious. We owe him so much I will have to take it, I guess. I'm sorry I slapped him."

"Slapped?" Dudley screwed his mouth into a comical twist. "Don't ever slap me!"

"It didn't even make him flinch."

"What was the beginning of all this?" Dudley demanded.

"Swergin caught our bad man, Ball, trailing me and wounded him. I wanted to stay and help him capture the outlaw but he packed me home," Donna explained briefly. "I agree with him. From now on you stay in camp!" Dudley tried to appear masterful.

"And you got the same answer as Swergin—no!" Donna turned and walked to her father's room.

Asper was awake and very restless. He greeted Donna with a question as she entered. "Have they got Ball yet?"

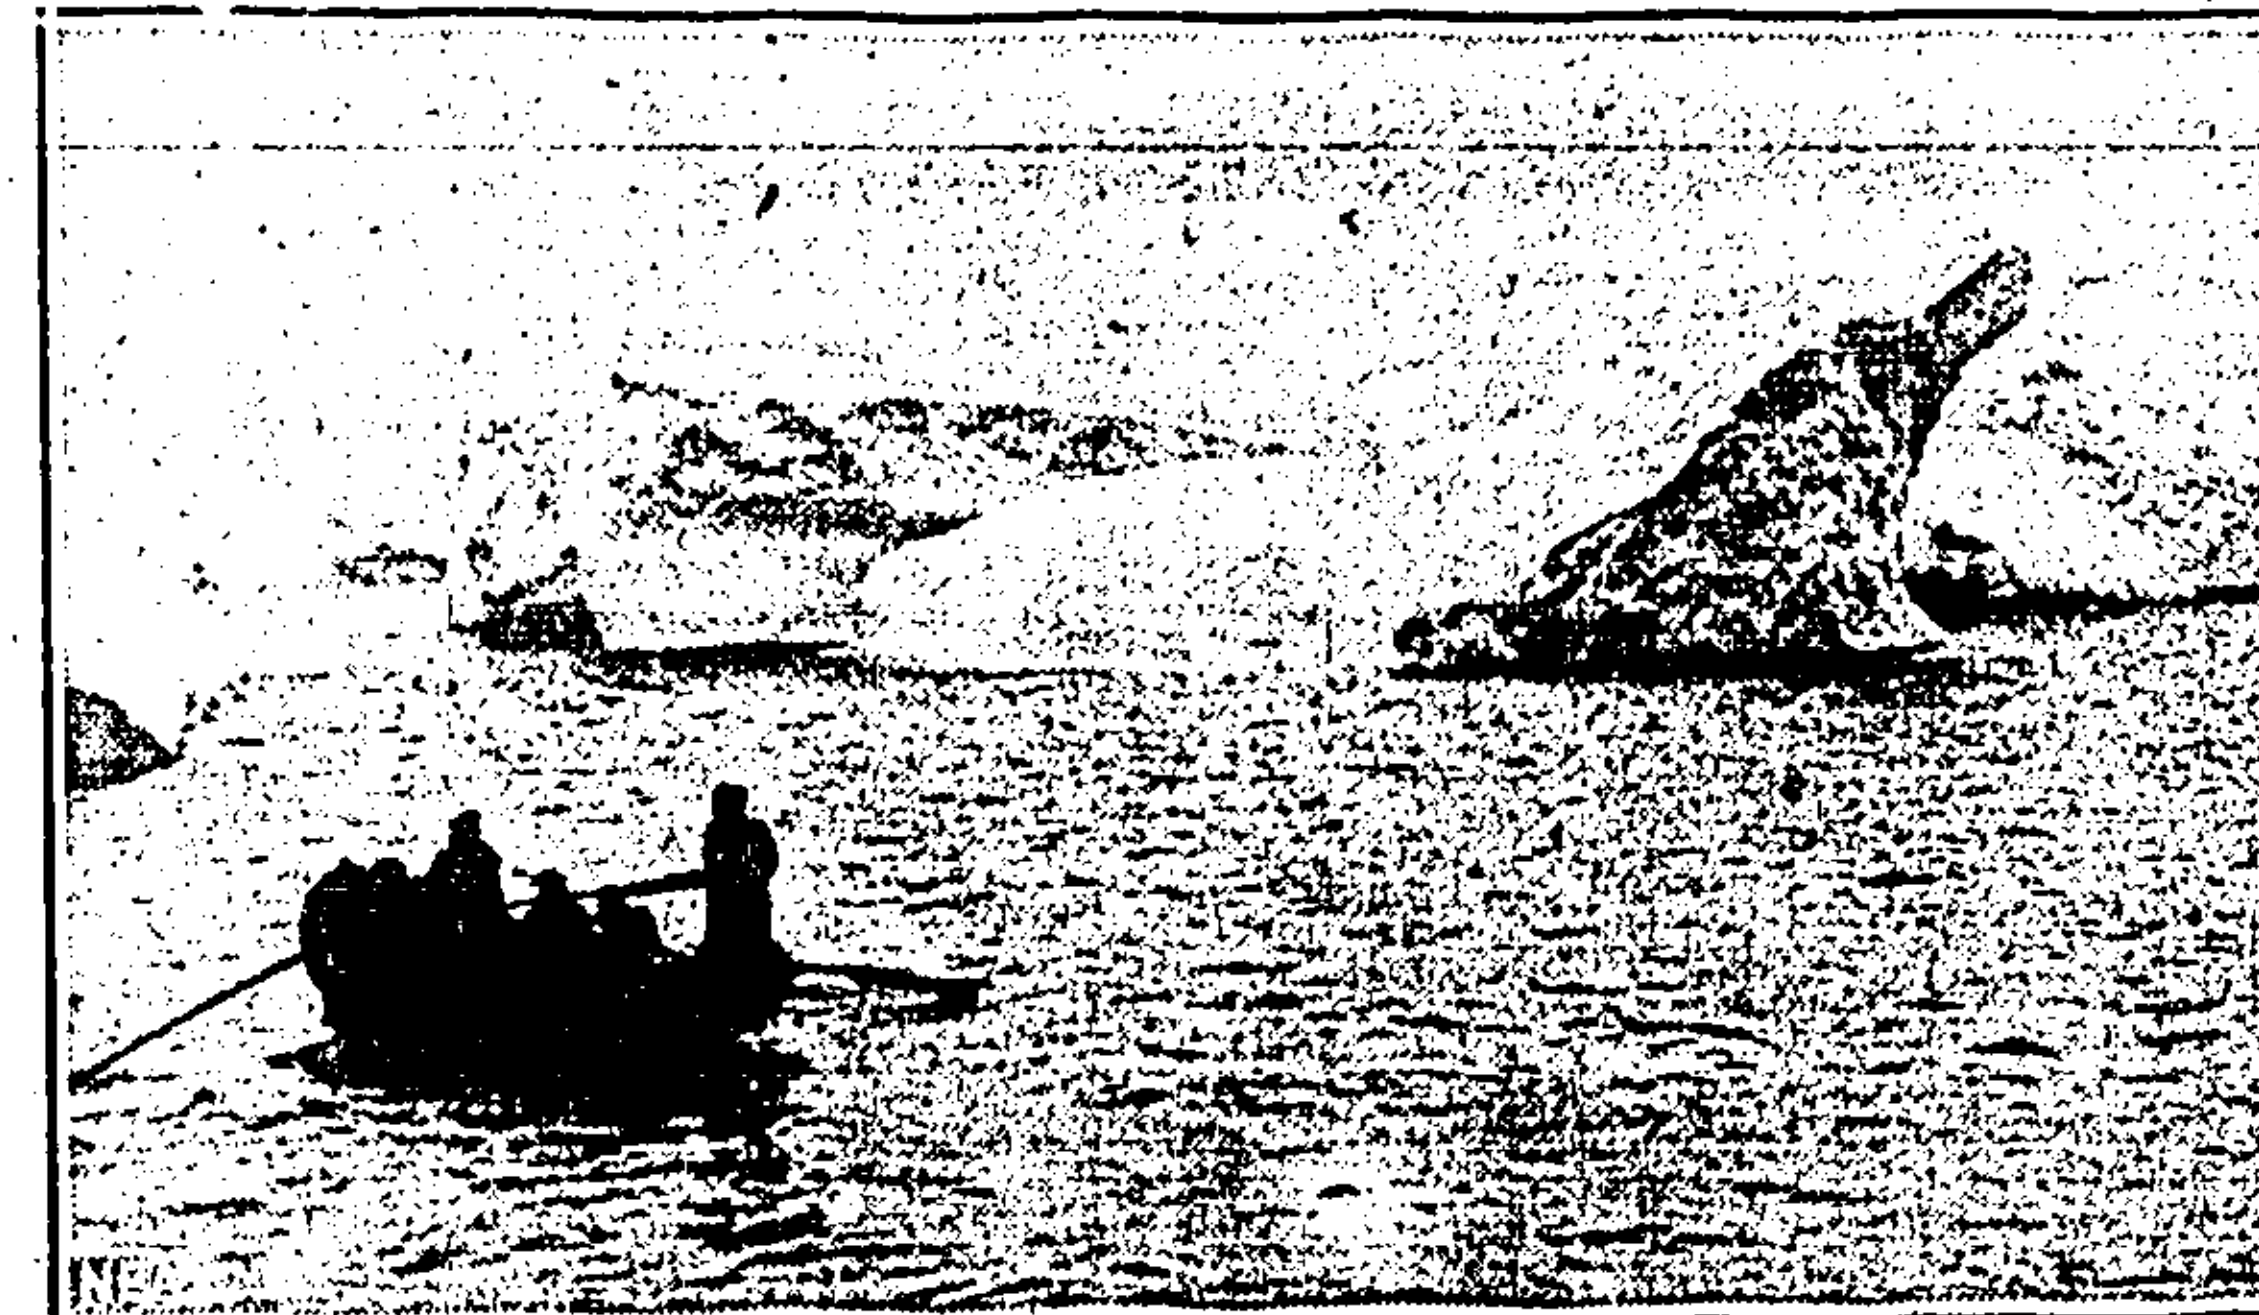

"No, Dad, but Swergin wounded him and is on his way right now to bring him in." Donna patted her father's hand and pushed him gently down on his pillow. "Remember what the doctor told you—no getting into a fret and so moving around until he says so!"

"Hang the doctor! If Ball isn't brought in within the next 48 hours I'll get up and go after him myself. I have a score to settle with Sister princesses—daughters of Prince and Princess Carl of Norway. Princess Ragnhild, 2, at left, is amusing Princess Astrid in the nursery of their summer home near Oslo.

It was in such forbidding surroundings—an icy sea dotted by menacing floes—that Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchinson, their two daughters, and crew of four, were forced down in their plane off the coast of Greenland. The picture was taken during the actual rescue of the party, and shows a boat from the British trawler Lord Talbot approaching the spot where the "Flying Family" were marooned. They then were taken to Scotland, their original destination when they left America in their plane.

Dashed to pieces on the rocky coast of Greenland, part of the big amphibian plane in which the Hutchinson "Flying Family" were flying is shown here as rescuers reached Ikroavik fjord, where they were marooned. In the background is visible the trawler Lord Talbot, which took aboard the adventurous couple and their two little daughters.

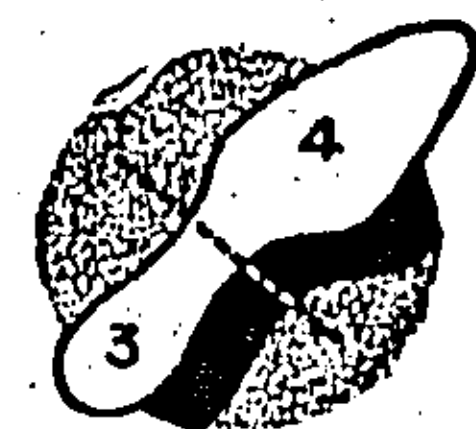

At least 40 persons were believed to have perished in the Tehachai Pass region of Southern California when a cloudburst flooded the canyon. This picture shows a railway engine almost submerged after it and six cars of a train had fallen through a trestle near Woodford. Twelve bodies were recovered here after a 30-foot wall of water had swept down the canyon, washing out bridges and flooding villages.

Hope has been abandoned for these three Japanese flyers, missing since they took off from Haneda, Japan, on the first leg of a flight to the United States via Alaska. Waving farewell before their big Junkers monoplane, are, left to right, Kiyoshi Homma, navigator, Eiichi Baba, pilot, and Tomoyoshi, radio operator.

RECENTLY a keen film-goer said to me, "with all the cinemas that we have in Hongkong and Kowloon it is a wonder that we cannot get a better variety of films here and in particular British pictures", and although of course, it had to be gently explained to him that the theatres in Hongkong had to pretty well put up with what was sent them and further that the display of British films must of necessity be limited because most of the leading cinema houses were under contract with American producing companies, it is welcome news indeed to hear that the Central Theatre, under its new management is securing early releases of British films and will be giving first runs of them in Hongkong.

THE Theatre, in fact, has announced an imposing list of first run pictures for showings in the near future. Among the British and Dominion output which have been booked are Curfew, with Matheson Lang, who made himself famous both as a stage player and as screen actor (in the silent version) with his remarkable characterisation; Good Night Vienna, which is acclaimed by the London critics to be Jack Buchanan's best effort to date, not excluding his delightful performance in Monte Carlo; The Blue Danube, with Dorothy Boucher; the famous and popular Tom Walls and Ralph Lynn combination in A Night Like This, and their even greater success Thark, and finally The Flag Lieutenant, with I believe, Henry Edwards in the part which he originated on the stage.

HERE we are beginning to get the cream of the homelike productions, which will not only delight the pro-British film-fan, but will give the critics a better chance of obtaining an idea of the real progress of the English studios, of which, although we have heard much, we have as yet, had little chance to appreciate.

A visit to the Central Theatre this week satisfied me that not only have the management done the Hongkong public a good turn by securing films of a high grade, but they have carried this scheme of general improvement and added excellence by studying the comforts of their patrons. New interior decorations, improved seating and vastly superior recording and reproducing apparatus add to the enjoyment of the audience and is giving the cinema a definite status among our places of amusement.

I feel that the Central Theatre can go still further in their progressive policy. Several people have expressed to me the desirability of the Theatre having a more central booking office. The theatre itself is rather off the beaten track meaning a rather tiresome ricksha or bus ride to reach it, and if a booking office could be installed in the centre of the city it would meet a much felt want.

THE first offering under the new management is the RKO-Radio Super production The Lost Squadron, and after viewing it I am not surprised that it has been showing to splendid houses this week. As a spectacular entertainment it ranks with the best that the American studios have given the world. Although it has its weak spots (is it likely that Allied and German aviators fought on November 11, 1918 with their eyes on wrist watches, bringing down each other in flames until 11 a.m. and then packing up and bidding one another cheerful farewells?) the picture has sustained action to guide it through a none too easy path. The introduction is neat, driving home very forcibly the disillusionment which 60 per cent. of the war heroes suffered upon their return home from France and the other war zones, whilst it also assists in sustaining the central theme of the story—the unbreakable bond of comradeship of men who have lived, suffered and laughed together.

THE effort to illustrate how a director of a film goes about his work is not so impressive, although Erich Von Stroheim makes as a good a job of it as anybody could, and better than most. This great actor-director is magnificent, and whilst he is before the camera and the microphone there is always something to hold one's attention. Richard Dix will satisfy his admirers, although this is not the same vehicle as Cimarron, and his performance suffers accordingly. Robert Armstrong offers a convincing portrayal and Joel McCrea (have you noticed how much like Col. Lindbergh he is?), successfully alternates between boyishness and manliness, as his part requires.

THE exploitation of the brilliant English stage actress Evelyn Laye by United Artists in One Heavenly Night, which has just finished a successful run at the King's Theatre, can be regarded as fairly successful, although I don't think the silver screen improves the delightful Miss Laye. Nevertheless there was a certain charm about the picture which robbed any of the indifferent phrases of their influence. John Boles still suggests self-consciousness in his acting, but his magnificent voice atones for anything in this direction. Leon Errol walked off with most of the honours, this droll comedian being at his best.

MENTAL acrobats and reactions are remarkably well expressed in New Morals for Old, which is now showing at the Queen's Theatre, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have certainly made an efficient job of van Druten's story. Although the dialogue has been freely adapted and transposed, the new version is consistent, and some of the added passages introduce pleasantly sparkling humour. The film has been directed by Charles Brabin. It is direction with a lively sympathy and observation behind it; so that episodes, which, in other hands, would seem long drawn-out and over-acted, always retain a feeling of sincerity. Mr. Brabin excels in drawing from his actors the feeling of tense, uncomfortable repression; so that the audience shares with them the dreadful strain under which they reveal to one another the emotional storms which lie beneath the placid surface of their personalities. The interview between the mother and her daughter, who has just brought her fiancé to the house for the first time, is a masterly study of repressed energies. The general plan of van Druten's plot has been carefully preserved. It is a story about youth and age, and their eternal conflict, which resolves itself in a novel and effective way. At the beginning, the parents worry so about their children's welfare that their efforts at control develop into nagging. The children rebel, and break their parents' hearts by going their independent ways. But, at the end, they themselves have developed a sense of responsibility. The moral, as stated by the author, is that it does not matter whether children rebel against control or not. The great thing is that they should start life amid the influences of a good home. Miss Crews, who appears as the mother, plays the part very much on the lines of Miss Braithwaite in London. She is a newcomer to the screen. Born in San Francisco, she has had a distinguished stage career. She has appeared in New York in such plays as "May Fever" (Judith Bliss), "The Silver Cord" (Mrs. Phelps), and Pirandello's "Right You Are If You Think You Are" (Amelia).

I learn with extreme interest of the visit to Hongkong of Mr. E. Levy with his series of six French films, for it is the first time we in Hongkong have had a chance of studying in any form the French cinema. We have read much of their advanced technique particularly under Rene Clair's direction, and direct contract with French films, will I am sure, be eagerly sought by the majority of local film goers. The batch of pictures which Mr. Levy is to show in this Colony have been produced since 1930 by La Societe des Films, Oson, and have been acclaimed by London and American critics as being of outstanding merit. Among the noted French screen players who appear in them are Annabella and Albert Prejean, Madame Jane Marnac and Muratore, the tenor of Paris Opera. Two London critics write enthusiastically concerning these players. One says "I should like to see Albert Prejean in a British film. Exploited properly, he would, I think, be the 'hero' of the year. This is the sort of starring material we want." I must confess to a weakness for these French pictures. There is a gaiety about their atmosphere and a tenderness about their love stories that are refreshing. Another writes "Albert Prejean has the fascination of a Chevalier with the acting ability of a Frederic March." (High praise indeed!) Annabella is a thoroughly intriguing heroine. She is different from the usual type and acts extremely well. There is in the production the best of silent technique with dialogue. Consequently there is plenty of action and a wide range of settings, with no long speech sequences. Songs are tuneful and set you humming. They are very well recorded."

MR. Levy expects to show his pictures here in the near future, although the venue has not yet been decided on. In case any of my readers should be scared because the dialogue is entirely French, I might point out there is only 25 per cent. dialogue and that in any case English subtitles have been superimposed.

ANOTHER HOCKEY INNOVATION

NEW TOURNAMENT NEXT YEAR

INTERPORTS FOR THE FUTURE?

(By "Bully-Oh")

IT has just come to my notice through the secretary of the Mamak Shield Competition, Mr. E. V. Marshall, that early in the New Year, provided sufficient support is forthcoming, a Hockey Festival, to take the form of a knock-out competition, will be held. The event will be open to all clubs in the Colony and should be welcomed by all enthusiasts for it will provide yet another opportunity for players to improve their game by competitive hockey. The chief difficulty, I am given to understand, will be in the matter of grounds, but I feel sure all Clubs with their own grounds will co-operate and so overcome this difficulty. A special committee will be formed to manage the competition for which a silver cup is to be presented.

A great deal of credit is due to the committee of the Mamak Shield Competition for their part in the furtherance of the sport in the Colony, and if their hopes are realised a match between Macao and a team selected from Clubs competing in the competition will take place in the near future. Unfortunately, by confining the team to players registered in the Mamak competition only, the Colony's strongest side will not be available, but the fixture is indeed a step in the right direction and may lead to a successful rectangular Interport competition between Hongkong, Macao, Canton and Shanghai in the near future.

I intimated last week the Medway Mamak team would make an impressive debut in the competition, and on Wednesday they registered a win of five clear goals against the R.A.S.C. at Happy Valley. They fielded a very strong combination and kept their opponents continually on the defensive. They were led by M. Hawood, who was always a menace to the R.A.O.C. defence and who received full measure of support from his inside men, Robertson and Lewis, while W. Soperworthy, on the right flank, proved himself a past master in the art of accurate centres. The team should do well and offer a sturdy resistance to any of the registered clubs.

THERE is no doubt that the brilliance of O. de Souza, of the "Varsity," was responsible for the reverse St. Andrew's suffered in the Mamak competition on Sunday. He played a remarkably good game and in the first half performed the "hat-trick." The result of the match was not altogether unexpected, for the students had run the Incognitos, one of the strongest combinations in the league to an odd goal defeat the previous week.

IN view of the fact that it was their second appearance on grass, the Medway Officers' XI did well to hold the Club to one goal in a friendly game on Wednesday. Both factions fielded strong combinations, although missing from the Club side were W. E. Williams and Rodgers. Their exclusion meant a re-shuffling of the forward line and Lay was transferred to centre forward from his usual position at left outside, Divett going to inside right and A. E. P. Guest filling the vacancy on the left. Low, deputised for Rodgers in the defence. A feature of the game was the superb custodianship of Lieut. Higham of the Medway, and Duncan, who was between the sticks for the Club.

Interport Soccer Selectors Make Another Attempt to Discover Ideal Team

MARTIN PERSISTED WITH BUT SEVERAL OTHER CHANGES ARE EFFECTED

Where Were the Reserves Last Wednesday: League Games

(By "VERITAS").

Three interesting matches are down for decision in the first division of the football league to-morrow, the prospective results of which offer some speculation.

South China make a re-appearance at Caroline Hill where they entertain the Club, whilst the Lincolns, following upon their reverse against the Saints last week, journey to Sookunpoo to contest the Royal Artillery, one of the best all-round teams in the league. The third tie of interest is that between Kowloon and the Navy on the former's enclosure.

CLUB CHANGES.

Strange, kept out of the team last week and in the Interport trial on Wednesday through a slight foot injury, returns to the Club side, but this time at centre-half. Revolutionary changes if you like! Desmond Hynes, who played such a brilliant game at left back against the Artillery, is retaining this position and accompanying Martin in the last but one line of defence.

Manning Ralston and George Duncan go out of the team, to allow Dornay to return to inside right and Williams to take the right wing. Skinner moves from the pivotal position to right half. If Strange can be as constructive as he is spoiling I think he will prove a decided acquisition at centre-half, and possibly Skinner will find the wing more to his liking, although he is assured of a pretty busy afternoon looking after the Pak-wa.

Outside of a firmer half back line, the Club's great need is a goal scoring forward, and I feel that the transference of Williams to the wing is robbing them of this acquisition. If however, Howe can infuse a little more spirit into his work he may find opportunity for turning to good account the openings of his wingmen.

REJUVENATED KOWLOON.

Kowloon, after their runaway success against the Recoile last week, are making changes for to-morrow, but it is pretty certain they will be up against a stiff proposition for with the China fleet now in port, the Navy should be in the position to field an exceptionally strong side.

The most encouraging feature about Kowloon's rejuvenation last Saturday was the marked improvement among the halves. Watkins' return meant an all-round tightening up, and both Bliss and McKelvie appeared in spired by the standard he set. Blackford too is making a distinct difference to the forward line, affording Nelems more opportunity of scoring.

What should be one of the best matches of the day is that between the Royal Artillery and the Lincolns. The Artillery have so far enjoyed a good measure of success, and unless the Lincolns improve upon their finishing of last week, they will suffer their second reverse.

The Artillery literally made rings round the Club at intervals, and their forwards have a "punch" which is sufficient to worry any defence. The Lincolns will have to watch Bryant, Seal and More, who are among the liveliest attackers in local football.

WERE WERE THE RESERVES?

I commented fairly fully on the Interport trial in yesterday's Telegraph, and there is little to add, beyond the fact that it seemed peculiar that of the four reserves originally picked for the Trial team, only one turned out to take his place among the three vacancies caused by the exclusion of Strange, Barber and Cheng Sul-hong. Neither B. Gosano, Dornay or Bliss made an appearance. Of course it is possible that neither were available and that the selectors were forced to call out Beltrao and E. Strange. In which case the players are to blame, for if they are selected as reserves for an important trial, they should do their utmost to be present should their services be needed.

If, however, the selectors deliberately ignored Bliss and Dornay, their action is, to say the least, somewhat incomprehensible. Surely E. Strange, talented and promising a footballer as he is, is not seriously considered by the selectors as a probable, or even a possible, for this year's Interport team? And even if they do, what is the use of putting him at outside right, when his position is inside left?

Although Beltrao has certain claims for a trial, I rather think the selectors would have received more assistance if they had brought in Bliss.

MULLANES MUST.

The selectors' task, however, is to find a balanced team, where reliable team work is given preference to individual brilliance. Judging from the results of their meeting immediately following upon the match, the selectors were not at all satisfied with the form of their nominees, and next Tuesday will see some new personnel when a further trial match is to be staged. The latest team is:

Rodger (Club); Martin and Strange (Club); Bliss (Kowloon); Barber (Lincolns); A. Duncan (Club); B. Gosano (St. Joseph's); Wong Mee-shun (S.C.A.A.); Johnson (Police); Suen Kam-shun (C.A.A.); and Baldry (Lincolns), with the following reserves: Mullane (S.W.B.), Beltrao (St. Joseph's) and Jones (Borderers).

WHY MARTIN?

It is difficult to read the mind of the selectors, and therefore one finds it impossible to tell whether they have dropped Mullane because they are satisfied that he is certain of his place, or whether they feel he has not proved himself. But whichever it is, I can see no reason why they persist in playing Martin at this stage of the trials. So far he has given no indication of being up to Interport requirements and the fact that he partners Strange in the Club team is hardly sufficient to justify this continual inclusion when other players with stronger claims are available.

The selection of Wong Mee-shun is welcome, although if he is a serious candidate I wonder if it has been ascertained whether he will be available to make the trip? An entirely newcomer is Suen Kam-shun from Chinese Athletic, and his display will be watched with keen interest for it seems that he is Jones's chief obstacle for inclusion.

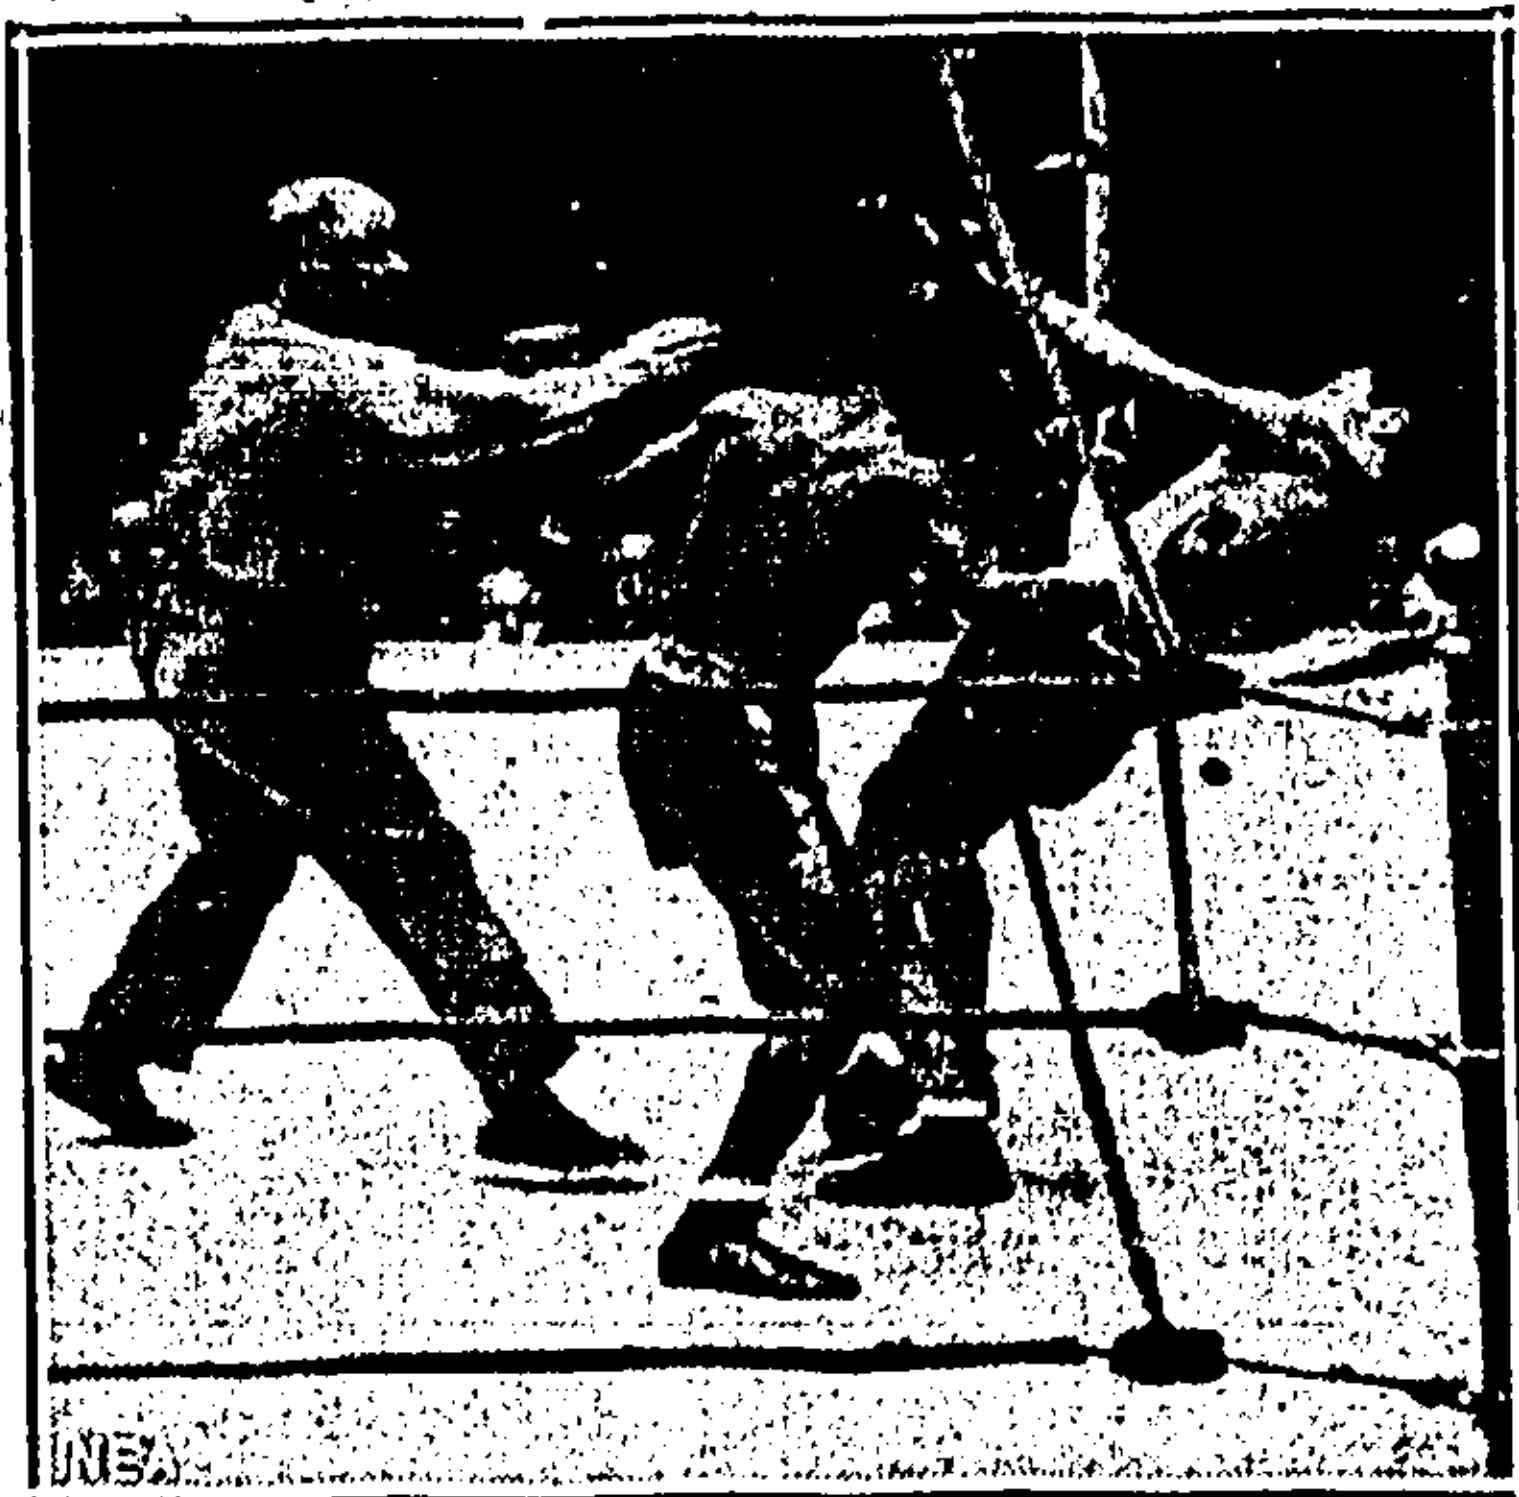

FRIENDLY HOCKEY.

Police and Y.M.C.A. Play Drawn Match.

Two friendly hockey matches were played at King's Park yesterday, the Y.M.C.A. and the Police being engaged in a drawn game and the Central British Association beating the German Club four goals to nil.

The match between the Y.M.C.A. and the Police was played on the former's ground, a late start causing the game to be considerably curtailed. The Police started with only eight players and later had nine, while the Y.M.C.A. team fielded only 10 throughout. Each side registered a goal in the first half, G. C. Burnett scoring for the Y.M.C.A. and Perkins for the Police.

On the Central British Association ground the home team entertained the German Club which tried several new players. The visitors were no match for their superior opponents and were down to the tune of four clear goals.

Sent to the ropes under the force of a vicious right-hand punch to the jaw, Jack (Kid) Berg wasn't faring well when, as you see him here (at right), he wilted before Kid Chocolate's onslaught. The Cuban negro rushed in to press his advantage, but the bell ended the exciting third round a few seconds after this picture was snapped. A storm of protest greeted a decision which gave the victory to the English fighter at the end of the 15 round battle in Madison Square Garden Bowl, New York.

LIBERTY BAY FOR H.K. ST. LEGER.

TO-MORROW'S EXCEPTIONALLY FINE PROGRAMME

WIDENED COURSE IN EXCELLENT CONDITION

(By "Ringtail").

With three St. Leger events on the card, the course in first rate condition, and entries right up to the mark, the prospects of a race meeting of unusual attraction and entertainment are fairly assured to-morrow.

Incidentally alterations have been made to the course and for this meeting the fences have been pulled out.

The first race, which is a mile event for "A" class griffins will see Mr. Leo Frost on Glenegles, and this pony is obviously the best choice of the field. Mr. Harriman is mounting That's So, and the pony is certainly in fine condition at the moment. Other nominees worth watching for place bets are Sitting Bull, with Mr. Butler up, Pride of Tasington, ridden by Mr. Pan, and Gay Crusader, who carries Mr. A. W. Roza.

AUSTRALIAN ST. LEGER.

The first St. Leger event of the afternoon is the second race which is the Australian St. Leger. I consider Polar Star is the best thing, the chief rival of which is the Griffie, with Mr. Frost up. Friar Tuck and Lucy Glitters are two ponies who have good reputations over long distances, and should stand good chances for places. Of the two I fancy Lucy Glitters.

The Castle Peak Handicap has Lunar Star at top weight, whilst Meridian Star and Bright Star all from the same stable are good ponies. Valorous has an excellent chance for despite the extra furlong I don't think it will make any difference to the pony's running, and this animal should be good for a place. The fact that the Tiger and Flying Tourist are carrying but medium weights will earn for them some confidence, which may not altogether be misplaced. Champagne Bay and Helter Skelter will be among the runners, but I don't expect either to offer serious opposition to the ponies mentioned.

THE BIG EVENT.

The Hongkong St. Leger, the fourth event of the afternoon is, of course, the principle item on the programme, and everybody is rather worked up about it because of the entry of Liberty Bay, which has never yet failed to win any event in which it has been started. Consequently the pony is a raging favourite and personally I fail to see how it can be beaten. On the other hand Wild Life has been putting in some excellent training gallops and also ran well, you will remember, at Macao. Navy Hall and Blue Star are the other two entrants, and I think the latter stands a fair chance for third place.

The Fanling Handicap, because of the very heavy entry is made the most difficult race of the afternoon over which to prognosticate, but the handicapper has done his job well, and of the big field I rather like the chances of Valley Hall and New King, who are running at 165 lbs and 160 lbs respectively. Other ponies which may do anything are Valeta, Pienfongshan, City of Shanghai, The Crook, Estrellita and Banjolina.

The Shum Chun Handicap finds a fair entry list, of which Workable Stag and Akax are the pick. Powhatan, Wendenful Stag and Indiana all possess good records and might cause an upset if anything untoward happens to either of the two ponies already mentioned.

SUBS CLASSIC.

Racing Boy is almost a "cert" for the Sub-Griffins St. Leger, for it has proved that it can run the same race from 6 furlongs up to almost any distance. Cy-Pres, which is weighted one pound more than Racing Boy will offer a challenge to the favourite, but I still feel that wherever Racing Boy is, Cy-Pres will be behind it.

Chiu Quan is an excellent little pony and at the moment is running extremely well. In my opinion it is a good chance for some sound place betting. The final race, the Tai Po Handicap, finds Adam enjoying the confidence of many astute race-goers and I think it has a splendid chance to win. King's Parade will be a danger to it, whilst Wakefield and Gold Bar are ponies which have done a lot of racing in Hongkong and offer some speculation. Royal Flush and Cabinet Hall may possibly figure in the betting for places.

CRICKET NOTES

LAY'S FIERCE HITTING

CLOCK RACED AT K.C.C.

LEAGUE MATCHES TO-MORROW

(By "The Stumper")

AFTER all that has been written on the Army-K.C.C. match last Saturday, it would be useless to dwell too long on this game in my notes this week. Suffice to say the Peninsula team won and fully deserved the points, if only for the stout-hearted manner in which they set about the task of making 174 runs in about 90 minutes. What has been described as a magnificent innings by A. T. Lay made this achievement possible and to him more than to anybody else the credit was due.

IN the absence of F. Goodwin who strained a muscle during the week, E. C. Fincher deputised as skipper of the K.C.C. and more than contributed his quota with a steady innings for 62. He was completely overshadowed by Lay, whilst they were together at the wicket but in his unobtrusive way, "Teddy" was playing his part, and helped Lay to put up 103 for the first wicket. He gave one chance fairly early to Capt. Wales at mid-off, but apart from this flaw, his innings was unblemished.

I AM given to understand that the game commenced 35 minutes late and ended up at about 6.30 p.m. This alone gives a fairly good idea of the astounding rate of scoring. The Army bowling, to my mind, was definitely weak, despite the return of Lieut. A. H. Munson to the side. If Lieut. Hamilton had turned out to do duty for the Army on the cricket field instead of preferring to score tries at rugby, I feel sure the K.C.C. could not have won.

THE only other League encounter during the afternoon was that between the Police R.C. and the Civil Service C.C. 2nd XI on the former's ground. The guardians of the peace scored another creditable victory and look like making a bid for championship honours this season. In T. R. Hunter, they have a bowler who will win many matches for them, but I doubt if they will be good enough to win the Shield, although I have not forgotten that in their first official game, they defeated the champions.

THE Civil Service Juniors looked quite strong on paper, but their batsmen failed against Hunter, and only Barrow, who has been playing cricket in better company, put up any resistance. His effort was unavailing, however, and the side was defeated by six wickets. I see that Ling is leading the team and should be a definite asset as a medium-to-fast left hand bowler.

TO-morrow will see the senior champions in action. They will travel to Happy Valley where the Civil Service C.C. will provide the opposition. I have been rather impressed by their bowling and fielding in recent matches although I cannot say the same as regards their batting, which is rather uncertain. The Civil Servants are fielding their strongest side, and a good game should be seen, although I favour the chances of the Indians. H. G. Wallington, a good all-rounder, is turning out again for the Civil Servants, I see. He gave up cricket a few years ago for soccer, but has decided to don flannels again.

A GOOD game should be seen on the Hongkong C.C. ground where the United Services will meet the Club. The fact that it is only a half-day game may rob the match of much of its interest, but all the same I anticipate some good cricket. The Kowloon C.C. will visit Craigengower C.C. in a friendly match and there should be some tall scoring.

IN the Junior League, the only game I know is that between the R.A.S.C. and the Indian R.C. on the military ground at Sookunpoo. The champions should collect the points. There are also several interesting friendlies on the programme.

LOCAL cricketers may be interested in Bradman's opinion of the M.C.C. XI in Australia. "England is gambling on her shock-fast bowlers to displace the best left-handed batsmen," he declared. He expressed surprise at the selection of some of the English players, and thought that the English selectors had made a tremendous mistake in dropping Frank Woolley, whom he considered to be still the world's best left-handed batsman. He added that he prophesied some time ago that England would recover the Ashes, who was now more optimistic of Australia's chances. "Don't be surprised if you see the name of Fleetwood-Smith in Australia's eleven," he remarked. "An American has improved beyond all knowledge as a bowler, developing phenomenal finger-spin."

that cow puncher! Asper settled back in spite of himself and a flush of pain crossed his face.

"Swergin will bring him in," Dona promised.

"When he does Ball is to be brought here. Understand? I have a lot to tell that coyote." Asper closed his eyes and lay still.

Dona sat beside him, a worried frown on her face. He seemed much worse than when she had left him. She hoped Swergin would bring Ball in and end the tenseness of the situation. Asper drifted into a trouble sleep and Dona walked to the window.

Folly Mountain rose high above and seemed to frown down on the camp. Somehow she did not believe the timber boss would bring Ball in. The man was becoming almost like a mythical character. She had seen flashes of him, had heard the men say they had seen him and she was eager to stand face to face with him.

Her thoughts drifted back over what seemed weeks ago instead of days to the man who had saved her from the thugs who had kidnapped her. She wondered if Stanley Black was riding a near range. She would have been glad to have gone to him with her troubles just then.

An idea came to her. She would ride to Blind River at the next chance and see for herself what the situation was. She could inquire there for Stanley Black. This decision made her smile as she thought of Swergin and Dudley. They would both have to be dodged carefully and they would both be angry when she told them where she had gone.

Asper stirred, groaned and Dona returned to his side. He was muttering in his sleep in angry mumbling tones. Suddenly panic struck at Dona's heart. Perhaps she should take him to the city. But would he go? All at once she remembered the marriage certificate that had been signed. If she had to, she would use that, but first she wanted to slip away and ride to Blind River. She would have her chance the next morning and she would take it.

O.A.G.'S FLIGHT

MR. AND MRS. SOUTHERN
SEE COLONY FROM AIR

An inspection was made at the civil aerodrome at Kai Tak yesterday afternoon by His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government, the Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, C.M.G., who was accompanied by Mrs. Southern and his A. D. C.

After the inspection Mr. A. V. Harvey took one of the planes, an A.W.16, aloft, and high above the aerodrome, did a series of "stunts."

Later, His Excellency and Mrs. Southern, at the invitation of Mr. Harvey, were taken for a flight over the city and the surrounding country in the Cutty Sark amphibian.

Both the Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Southern, on their return to the aerodrome, expressed themselves as delighted with their experience. It is understood that this is the first occasion that either the O.A.G. or Mrs. Southern have flown in an aeroplane.

LOCAL WEDDING

MISS G. F. BERRIE AND
MR. A. REID

An interesting wedding took place at St. John's Cathedral yesterday afternoon, when Miss Gwendolyn Frances Berrie, of Sydney, Australia, became the bride of Mr. Alan Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Reid, of Richmond, Surrey.

The bride was given away by Mr. A. H. Ferguson and looked charming in a dress of ivory satin, with a veil trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses and Honolulu creepers.

The matron of honour was Mrs. Stafford Smith, who was dressed in floral silk voile.

The best man was Mr. Eric Bryden.

After the wedding a reception was given at the Hongkong Hotel, where the happy couple were the recipients of congratulations from their many friends.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES.

An intriguing romance between Alexander Kirkland and Marian Nixon is woven into the plot of "Charlie Chan's Chance," the Fox Films mystery drama starting on Sunday at the King's Theatre. In "Charlie Chan's Chance," Kirkland and Miss Nixon are among the suspects in a murder tangle but they are absolved from suspicion by Charlie Chan, the famous Oriental detective, who solves the mysterious crime and brings the real criminal to justice by following what the New York police and Scotland Yard detectives regard as insignificant clues. But not until he has experienced a series of thrilling adventures and breath-taking escapes. Warner Oland, outstanding for his portrayal of Oriental characters, enacts the role of Charlie Chan, and other prominent personalities in the cast include H. B. Warner, Linda Watkins, James Kirkwood, Ralph Morgan and James Todd.

"The Wet Parade."

The chaos, fervid excitement and intense drama of modern times provides a sensational background for "The Wet Parade," opening on Sunday at the Queen's Theatre as one of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's most important releases. The picture covers three U.S. national periods, the war era, the war years during which the prohibition enactment was passed, and the modern period in which rampant disregard of the law has given rise to innumerable dramatic conflicts and has resulted in such typically modern phenomena as race-killers, crime waves, political corruptions and graft in hundreds of forms. The picture strikes the pulse of life as it is lived in the United States to-day. Its episodes are such as may be read about in the daily news columns and editorial pages, but as "The Big Parade" and "The Big House" its great theme merely serves as a background to the intimate and stirring love story of the plot. Dorothy Jordan, as the heroine, plays her most difficult and ambitious role in this picture, a portrayal which carries her far from the lighter roles of such earlier films as "Shipmates" and "Hell Divers." Robert Young, who scored as the son in "The Son of Madelon Claudet" also is given far greater opportunities here as the politician's son who falls in love with Miss Jordan. The film's outstanding character portrayals are in the hands of such experts as Lewis Stone, who plays the Southern aristocrat, and Walter Huston as the ward politician.

"Amateur Daddy."

Marian Nixon is a self-made actress. And like most women of achievement, she would never mention the fact of her own "little" in fact she prefers not to talk of herself or her career at all. The charming and demure little actress, who appears with Warner Baxter in "Amateur Daddy," at the King's Theatre, was recently forced to admit, however, that she got her first job, and every job thereafter on her own initiative. "Amateur Daddy," which was directed by John Blystone, tells a delightful story of a sympathetic bachelor, the one played by Mr. Baxter, who mothered a family of waifs and won himself a wife. The other players include Rita LaRoy, William Pawley, David Landau, Joan Breslaw and Dali Kornfeld. It is based on Mildred Cram's novel, "Scotch Valley."

"New Morals for Old."

High-strung, sex-mad youth and old-fashioned parents who refuse to understand the newer freedom of the modern generation, provide the dramatic conflict of "New Orleans for Old," which is showing at the Queen's Theatre. Ralph and Phyllis, a typical brother and sister in the average American home, want to live lives of their own, unhampered by parental restrictions. Ralph secures his father's wall-paper business, nourishing instead a desire to go to Paris and study art. Phyllis falls in love with Wilson and contemplates running away with him despite the fact that he is not free to make her his wife. Their parents attempt to lay down the law and consequently there are constant quarrels and recriminations in the household. Eventually both brother and sister achieve their desires but find them as such—dis in their hands. Ralph fails as an artist and is disillusioned by a disastrous love affair. When Wilson finally gets his divorce, Phyllis marries him and then settles down to a peaceful domesticity. At last they realize that freedom hasn't been so exciting after all. It is a picture which strikes an immediate responsive chord of sympathy in the onlooker. Robert Young, as the son who seeks an art career, offers a performance which places him in the front ranks of the screen's younger leading men.

"Carnival" at the Central.

A film of beauty, movement and power, aptly describes "Carnival" the British super-production coming to the Central Theatre on Sunday next. Most of the scenes are set to music—music not deliberate, but a subtle accompaniment to the action of the film. The acting is superb: Matheson Lang, Dorothy Boucher and Joseph Schildkraut all give of their best. Matheson Lang needs no eulogy, his powerful acting is too

21 YEARS AGO

EXTRACTS FROM THE "TELEGRAPH" FILES

The following extracts are from the Hongkong Telegraph for the week ended Nov. 4th, 1911.

The rate of the dollar, on demand was 1s. 10.1/16d.

The Hon. Mr. Warren B. Barnes, Colonial Secretary, who had only been in the Colony for a few months, died suddenly from heart failure after a practice game of polo.

Mr. H. P. Winslow was appointed Manager of the British Section of the Kowloon-Canton Railway.

The revolutionary troops continued to score successes in China, Shanghai falling into their hands.

Another of the delightful series of symphonic concerts is to be given by the Peninsula Hotel on Sunday next, the programme of which comprises an interesting selection of instrumental compositions that will no doubt afford listeners a pleasant evening's entertainment. Further particulars are contained in to-day's advertisement columns.

well known, neither does Joseph Schildkraut, whose "romantic lover" roles have endeared him in many feminine hearts, but special mention must be made of Dorothy Boucher who looks amazingly lovely in this film. Her acting, pose and appearance have improved beyond belief. The change from "Child" to Dorothy has certainly given us a "warmer" and more lovable little actress!

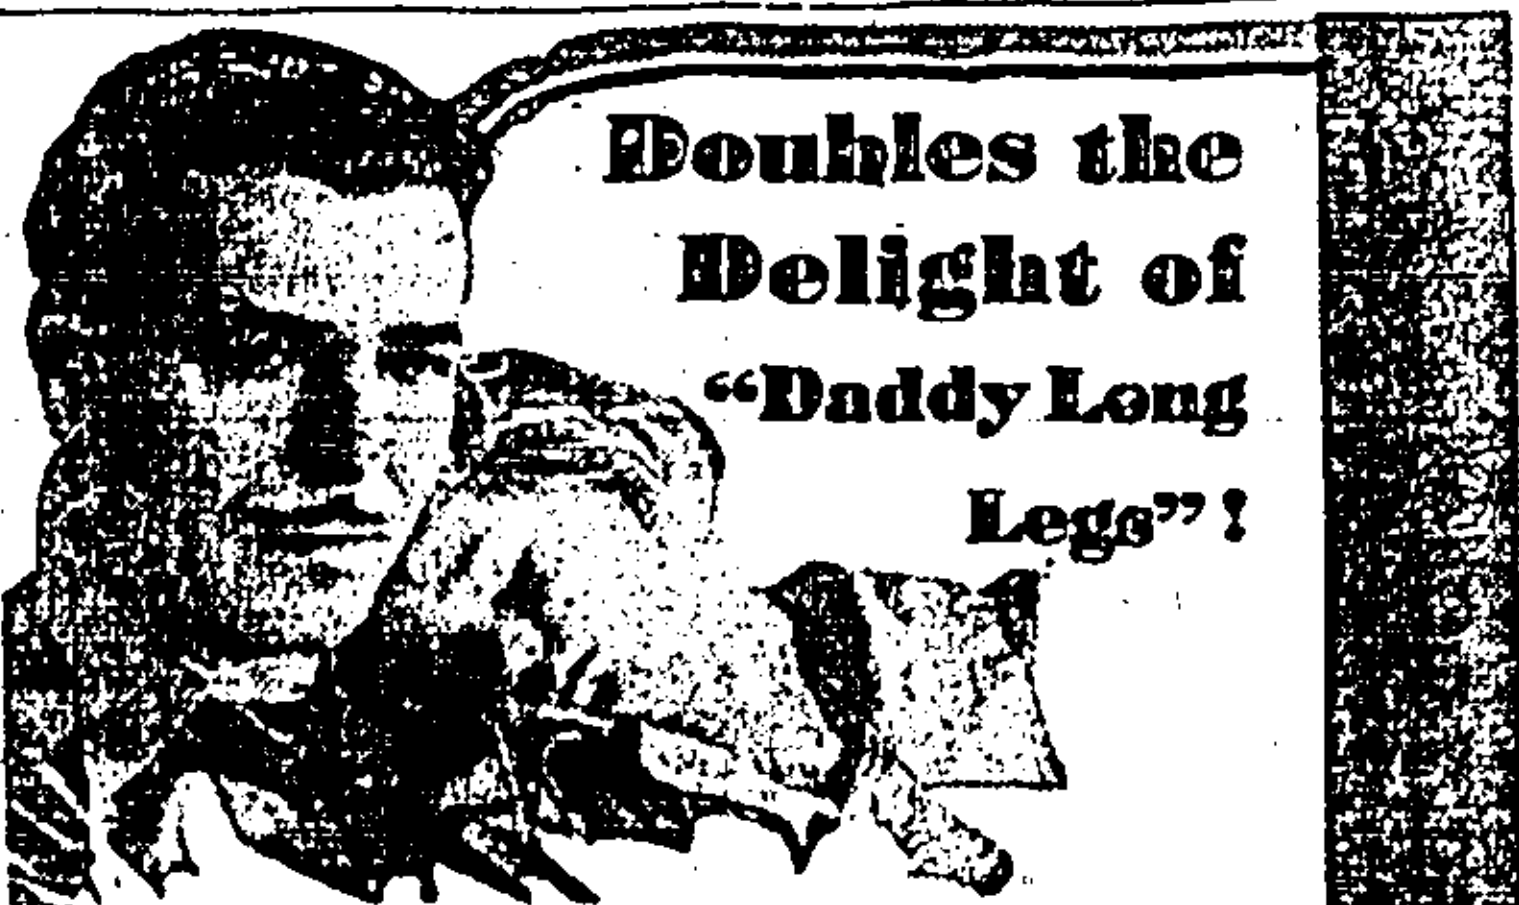

"The Lost Squadron."

A fleet of fifty war-time planes, two of them formerly flown by the rival war aces, Nungesser and Richtofen, make dizzy innominate turns, double loops, barrel rolls and perpendicular power dives in the air sequences of RKO Radio Picture "The Lost Squadron," which is showing at the Central Theatre. Richard Dix stars in the picture, and is ably supported by Mary Astor, Joel McCrea, Dorothy Jordan and Robert Armstrong. The planes used in the production of this spectacular story of Hollywood and the stunt aviators who risk their lives in the making of air pictures, are ancient Bleriot Camels, Thomas Morrisons, Hanley-Pages and Curtiss. The film is based on an original story by Dick Grace, author and ace stunter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Bridge is always a battle of wits and when experts are seated on all four sides of the table the battle frequently begins on the very first trick. So it was with to-day's hand.

The Bidding.

South and West passed, and North opened the bidding with one diamond. East passed and South bid one no trump, remembering that North's opening bid in third position might be rather weak. North rebid the diamond suit, thereby showing his partner that he had a hand of considerable strength.

South bid two no trump, and North closed the bidding with a declaration of three no trump.

The Play.

The obvious lead from the West hand was the king of clubs, on which East played the eight spot. While these plays were being made South had rapidly counted her sure tricks as four diamonds, two spades, one heart and one club.

She might procure the ninth trick by finding the king of hearts favourably placed, but she would be relieved of all danger if West could be induced to lead a club to the second trick.

Declarer knew East to be short in clubs, but West had no way of knowing that and would probably read the eight as a signal to continue the suit. Therefore Mrs. Black played the four, carefully holding up the deuce, so West would place that card in his partner's hand and would surely read the eight for a come-on. However, West knew the declarer to be a shrewd player and the bidding indicated that the clubs were stopped twice in her hand. Therefore West shifted to a diamond on which dummy played low and East won the trick with the king.

He returned the nine of clubs, on which declarer played the ace, discarding a small spade from dummy. She now led the ten of diamonds, overtaking with the jack in dummy and continuing with the ace and queen of diamonds, on which she discarded a small club and a small heart. She cautiously refrained from leading the last diamond in the dummy, for that would subject her own hand to an embarrassing squeeze.

Instead she led the ace of spades, followed by a small spade, which West was obliged to win with the king. West was now in an impossible position. To lead a club would establish declarer's jack and a heart lead would enable her to make the queen of that suit for the much needed ninth trick.

He selected a small heart, which declarer won in her own hand with the queen and cashed the queen of spades, the ace of hearts and the last diamond to fulfill her three no trump contract.

CALL of the WEST

By R. G. MONTGOMERY

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

Stan Ball, an agent for cattle interests, faces Asper Delo in his office. Ball accuses Delo of having men shot who are sent out to check his timbering activities at Three Rivers. Ball says he is making a personal check. Delo says he will personally see that Ball does not make the check. Her father, upon leaving Delo's office, Ball saves a girl from kidnappers. She proves to be Delo's daughter, Dona. When Ball learns her name he tells her she is Stanley Black and slips away.

Dudley Winters, in love with Dona, agrees to go to Three Rivers and get Delo to come back. Dona goes with him and at their first stop Dudley produces a marriage license and urges Dona to marry him, arguing that Delo will not go on a manhunt if they do. Dona barely misses the marriage by meeting Ball on his way to Three Rivers.

At the camp, Swergin, Asper's timber boss, tries to make Dona stay in camp. She slips away from men he has ordered to watch her and rides. She sees her father attacked and shot. Swergin rushes to her rescue. Dudley and Swergin both warn her not to ride alone as Ball will attack her as he has her father. Dona goes out again and when she starts back she is followed.

CHAPTER XIII.

As the realization came to Dona that she was not armed she set her spurs deep into the roan's flanks. She would give her pursuer a race he would remember. The roan flattened his ears and leaped away. Dona did not try to guide his powerful stride nor did she pull in on his bit. Her lips were parted and her eyes sparkled with the zest of the run.

Down through the young spruce the roan thundered, his steel-shod hoofs showering loose stones from the trail. Dona could hear her pursuer racing along through the second-growth timber on her left. He was riding a good horse because the roan was sprinting at a terrific speed but was not pulling away.

The rider on the left edged ahead, then suddenly burst from cover and out in upon Dona. As he swung to grip her bridle reins she gave a gasp of surprise. The rider was Ginter Swergin and he was plainly angry. Dona felt a flush of colour mount into her cheeks as she met his eyes. What right had he to stop her?

Swergin pulled the roan to a panting halt. "Didn't I tell you not to ride out of camp?" he snapped.

"Just when did you start giving me orders?" Dona was suddenly very angry.

Swergin jerked the roan's head up. "I'm taking you back to camp," he stated grimly.

"You are not! I am returning to camp when I get ready."

Dona's temper was roused. Swergin had apparently ridden out simply to bring her back. If there had been any apparent danger she might have gone back with him but his attitude seemed unreasonable.

Swergin sensed her objection. "You heard those shots?"

Dona suddenly remembered the rifle shots and nodded. She was still angry but she wanted to know who had done the shooting.

"I came upon Ball. He was trailing you. We had a little argument with him. Swergin's lips twisted into a half snarl.

"Did you hit him?" Dona asked eagerly, her anger forgotten for the second.

"I must have winged him. He went out of the picture right now. Next time I'll drill him clean." Swergin's little eyes lighted up queerly.

"We'll have to go back and find him," Dona spoke her decision. She wanted to see Ball and this seemed a fine chance to capture him.

"I'm taking you back to camp. Then I'll come out and finish the job I started," Swergin pulled up on the roan's head and made as if to start toward camp.

Dona's anger flared up again. "We're going to bring that man in! You act as though I were incompetent or a child." With a jerk she freed the roan's head and set him back on his hind feet.

Swergin leaned far out of his saddle and with one huge arm swept Dona clear of her saddle. With the other hand he cut the roan smartly across the hips with his saddle girth. The horse snorted and leaped away and Dona found herself swept to the saddle in front of Swergin.

Her struggles did not disturb his solid balance in the least. Grimly he pushed his horse down the trail while Dona choked down her wrath and kept silent. There was little use in arguing with the big timber boss.

They rode into camp and up to the wide porch in front of the main building. Dudley came running down the steps as he saw them coming. He held up his arms to Dona but she slid to the ground unassisted. Like a flash she whirled upon her uninvited rescuer. Her blue eyes blazed black and she swung the light quirt that hung at her wrist. With a wicked snap she slashed out with it and struck Swergin across the cheek. The rawhide lashes on the quirt left purple welts across his wind-hardened skin.

Swergin did not move a muscle but his eyes hardened. Slowly his lips pulled into a grin. "You're a little hell-cat when you can't have your way," he said slowly.

Dudley, who had stepped back at Dona's sudden action, crowded close to Swergin's stirrup. "What have you been up to?" he flared.

Swergin bent low and his grin vanished. "If you had any brains or any sand you'd watch this kid and keep her out of the timber. I ought to plant one right on your pretty nose! You need something to bring you around."

Dudley opened his mouth twice but he was too angry to speak. Dona pulled him back.

"We're going inside, Dud. I'll settle with this fellow later."

Swergin bowed and rode away without any trace of concern. Dona unable to control herself, burst out. "He acts as though he owned the works at Three Rivers!"

MOONLIGHT, a picturesque mountain camp, a pretty girl and a dashing cowboy. With such romantic elements of course there's a love story in "Call of the West" by R. G. Montgomery. There's adventure and excitement too in this thrilling new serial.

"I would have taken a punch at him but he has been of service to you and your father," Dudley grinned. "Boy, you're a knockout when you're mad, D!"

Dona halted just inside and door. She held Dudley away with one hand while she smoothed her wind-ruffled hair with the other. Her anger vanished rapidly and she joined Dudley's laugh.

"I guess I'll have to take it all back and be nice to him. But the way he bosses me around makes me furious. We owe him so much I will have to take it, I guess. I'm sorry I slapped him."

"Slapped?" Dudley scowled his mouth into a comical twist. "Don't ever slap me!"

"It didn't even make him flinch."

"What was the beginning of all this?" Dudley demanded.

"Swergin caught our bad man, Ball, trailing me and wounded him. I wanted to stay and help him capture the outlaw but he packed me home," Dona explained briefly.

"I agree with him. From now on you stay in camp!" Dudley tried to appear masterful.

"And you get the same answer as Swergin—no!" Dona turned and walked to her father's room.

Asper was awake and very restless. He greeted Dona with a question as she entered. "Have they got Ball yet?"

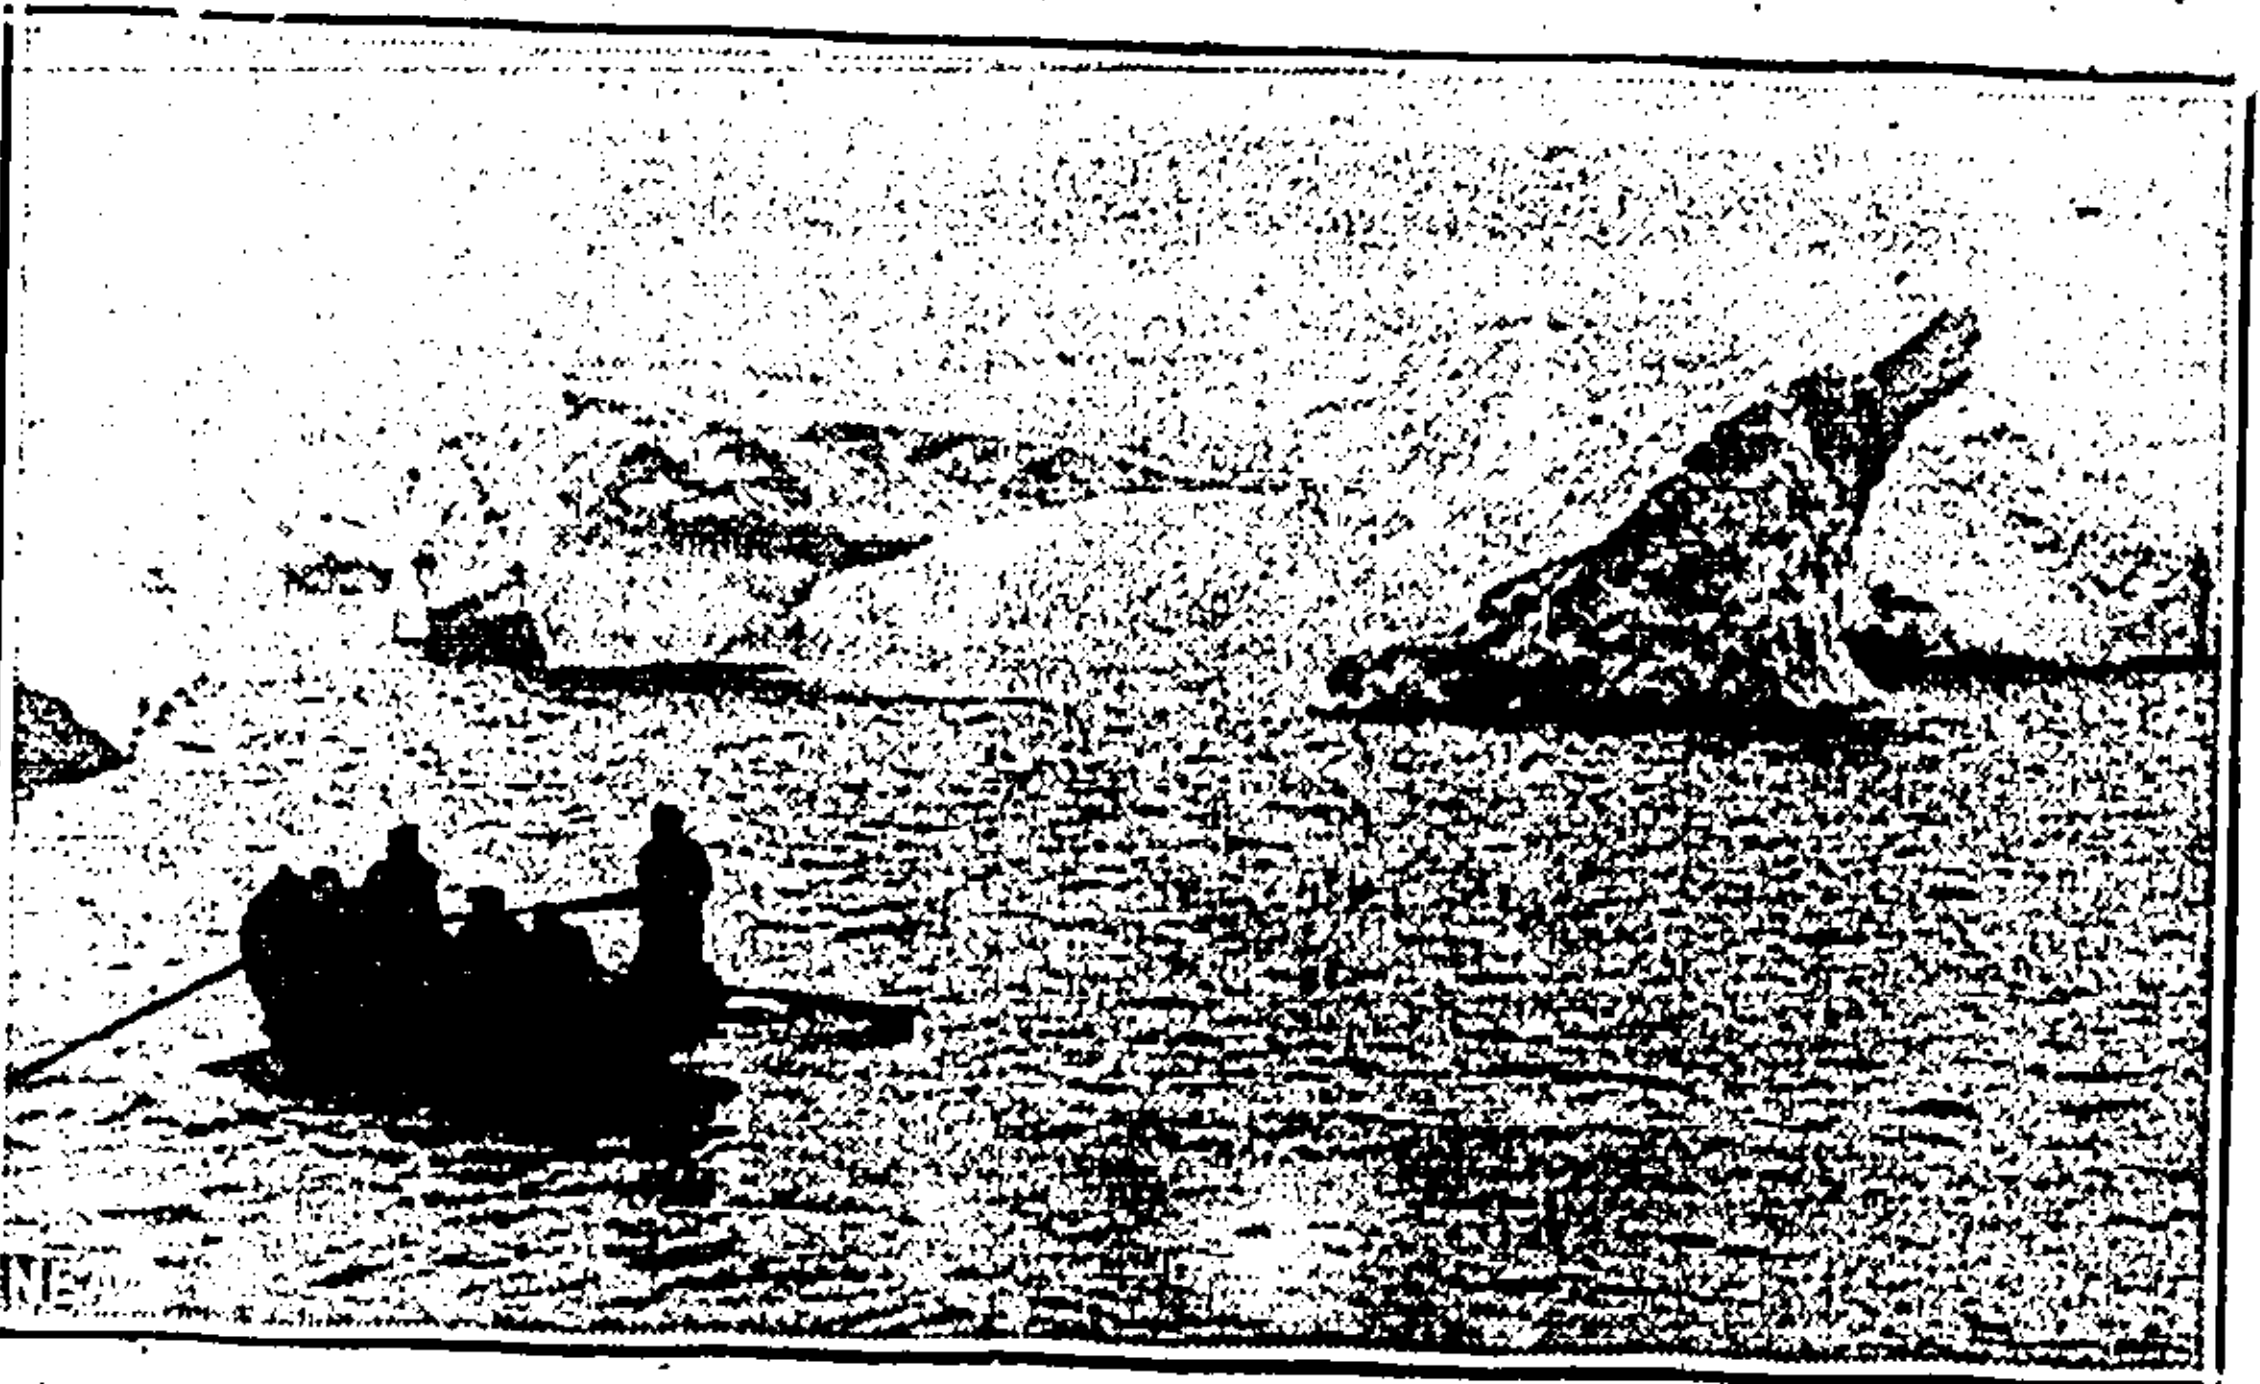

"No, Dad, but Swergin wounded him and is on his way right now to bring him in." Dona patted her father's hand and pushed him gently down on his pillow. "Remember what the doctor told you—no getting into a fret and so moving around until he says so!"

"Hang the doctor! If Ball isn't brought in within the next 48 hours I'll get up and go after him myself. I have a score to settle with Sister princesses—daughters of Prince and Princess Carl of Norway. Princess Ragnhild, 2, at left, is amusing Princess Astrid in the nursery of their summer home near Oslo.

It was in such forbidding surroundings—an icy sea dotted by menacing floes—that Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchinson, their two daughters, and crew of four, were forced down in their plane off the coast of Greenland. The picture was taken during the actual rescue of the party, and shows a boat from the British trawler Lord Talbot approaching the spot where the "Flying Family" were marooned. They then were taken to Scotland, their original destination when they left America in their plane.

Dashed to pieces on the rocky coast of Greenland, part of the big amphibian plane in which the Hutchinson "Flying Family" were flying is shown here as rescuers reached Ikroavik fjord, where they were marooned. In the background is visible the trawler Lord Talbot, which took aboard the adventurous couple and their two little daughters.

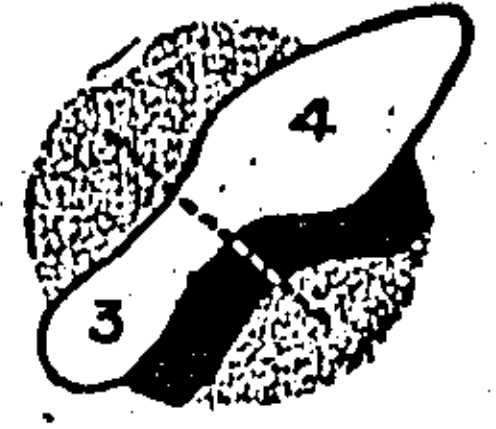

At least 40 persons were believed to have perished in the Tehachal Pass region of Southern California when a cloudburst flooded the canyons. This picture shows a railway engine almost submerged after it and six cars of a train had fallen through a trestle near Woodford. Twelve bodies were recovered here after a 30-foot wall of water had swept down the canyon, washing out bridges and flooding villages.

Hope has been abandoned for these three Japanese flyers, missing since they took off from Hanaoka, Japan, on the first leg of a flight to the United States via Alaska. Waiting farewell before their big Junkers monoplane, are, left to right, Kiyoshi Homma, navigator, Ejichiro Baba, pilot, and Tomoyoshi, radio operator.

RECENTLY a keen film-goer said to me "with all the cinemas that we have in Hongkong and Kowloon it is a wonder that we cannot get a better variety of films here and in particular British pictures", and although of course, it had to be gently explained to him that the theatres in Hongkong had to pretty well put up with what was sent them and further that the display of British films must of necessity be limited because most of the leading cinema houses were under contract with American producing companies, it is welcome news indeed to hear that the Central Theatre, under its new management, is securing early releases of British films and will be giving first runs of them in Hongkong.

THE Theatre, in fact, has announced an imposing list of first run pictures for showings in the near future. Among the British and Dominion output which have been booked are Criminal, with Matheson Lang, who made himself famous both as a stage player and as screen actor (in the silent version) with his remarkable characterization; Good Night Vienna, which is acclaimed by the London critics to be Jack Buchanan's best effort to date, not excluding his delightful performance in Monte Carlo; The Blue Danube, with Dorothy Boucher; the famous and popular Tom Walls and Ralph Lynn combination in A Night Like This; and their even greater success Thank, and finally The Flag Lieutenant, with I believe, Henry Edwards in the part which he originated on the stage.

HERE we are beginning to get the cream of the homestead productions, which will not only delight the pro-British film-fan, but will give the critics a better chance of obtaining an idea of the real progress of the English studios, of which, although we have heard much, we have as yet, had little chance to appreciate.

A visit to the Central Theatre this week satisfied me that not only have the management done the Hongkong public a good turn by securing films of a high grade, but they have carried this scheme of general improvement and added excellence by studying the comforts of their patrons. New interior decorations, improved seating and vastly superior recording and reproducing apparatus add to the enjoyment of the audience and is giving the cinema a definite status among our places of amusement.

SIX FRENCH PICTURES TO BE SHOWN HERE

I feel that the Central Theatre can go still further in their progressive policy. Several people have expressed to me the desirability of the Theatre having a more central booking office. The theatre itself is rather off the beaten track meaning a rather tiresome ricksha or bus ride to reach it, and if a booking office could be installed in the centre of the city it would meet a much felt want.

THE first offering under the new management is the RKO-Radio Super production The Lost Squadron, and after viewing it I am not surprised that it has been showing to splendid houses this week. As a spectacular entertainment it ranks with the best that the American studios have given the world. Although it has its weak spots (is it likely that Allied and German aviators fought on November 11, 1918 with their eyes on wrist watches, bringing down each other in flames until 11 a.m. and then packing up and bidding one another cheery farewells?) the picture has sustained action to guide it through a none too easy path. The introduction is neat, driving home very forcibly the disillusionment which 60 per cent. of the war heroes suffered upon their return home from France and the other war zones, whilst it also assists in sustaining the central theme of the story—the unbreakable bond of comradeship of men who have lived, suffered and laughed together.

THE effort to illustrate how a director of a film goes about his work is not so impressive, although Erich Von Stroheim makes as a good a job of it as anyone could, and better than turn by securing films of a high grade, but they have carried this before the camera and the microphone there is always something to hold one's attention. Richard Dix will satisfy his admirers, although this is not the same vehicle as Cimarron, and his performance suffers accordingly. Robert Armstrong offers a convincing portrayal and Joel McCrea (have you noticed how much like Col. Lindbergh he is?), successfully alternates between boyishness and manliness, as his part requires.

THE exploitation of the brilliant English stage actress Evelyn Laye by United Artists in One Heavenly Night, which has just finished a successful run at the King's Theatre, can be regarded as fairly successful, although I don't think the silver screen improves the delightful Miss Laye. Nevertheless there was a certain charm about the picture which robbed any of the indifferent phases of their influence. John Boles still suggests self-consciousness in his acting, but his magnificent voice atones for anything in this direction. Leon Errol walked off with most of the honours, this droll comedian being at his best.

MENTAL acrobats and reactions are remarkably well expressed in New Morals for Old, which is now showing at the Queen's Theatre, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have certainly made an efficient job of van Druten's story. Although the dialogue has been freely adapted and transposed, the new version is consistent, and some of the added passages introduce pleasantly sparkling humour. The film has been directed by Charles Brabin. It is direction with a lively sympathy and observation behind it; so that episodes, which, in other hands, would seem long drawn-out and over-acted, always retain a feeling of sincerity. Mr. Brabin excels in drawing from his actors the feeling of tense, uncomfortable repression; so that the audience shares with them the dreadful strain under which they reveal to one another the emotional storms which lie beneath the placid surface of their personalities. The interview between the mother and her daughter, who has just brought her fiancé to the house for the first time, is a masterly study of repressed emotion. The general plan of van Druten's plot has been carefully preserved. It is a story about youth and age, and their eternal conflict, which resolves itself in a novel and effective way. At the beginning, the parents worry so about their children's welfare that their efforts at control develop into nagging. The children rebel, and break their parents' hearts by going their independent ways. But, at the end, they themselves have developed a sense of responsibility. The moral, as stated by the author, is that it does not matter whether children rebel against control or not. The great thing is that they should start life amid the influences of a good home. Miss Crews, who appears as the mother, plays the part very much on the lines of Miss Braithwaite in London. She is a newcomer to the screen. Born in San Francisco, she has had a distinguished stage career. She has appeared in New York in such plays as "Hay Fever" (Judith Bliss), "The Silver Cord" (Mrs. Phelps), and Pirandello's "Right You Are If You Think You Are" (Annulla).

I learn with extreme interest of the visit to Hongkong of Mr. E. Levy with his series of six French films, for it is the first time we in Hongkong have had a chance of studying in any form the French cinema. We have read much of their advanced technique particularly under Rene Clair's direction, and direct contract with French films, will, I am sure, be eagerly sought by the majority of local film goers. The batch of pictures which Mr. Levy is to show in this Colony have been produced since 1930 by La Societe des Films Oso, and have been acclaimed by London and American critics as being of outstanding merit. Among the noted French screen players who appear in them are Annabella and Albert Prejean, Madame Jane Marne and Muratore, the tenor of Paris Opera.

Two London critics write enthusiastically concerning these players. One says "I should like to see Albert Prejean in a British film. Exploited properly, he would, I think, be the 'hero' of the year. This is the sort of starring material we want. I must confess to a weakness for these French pictures. There is a quality about their atmosphere and a tenderness about their love stories that are refreshing." Another writes "Albert Prejean has the fascination of a Chevalier with the acting ability of a Frederic March." (High praise indeed!) "Annabella is a thoroughly intriguing heroine. She is 'different' from the usual type and acts extremely well. There is in the production the best of silent technique with dialogue. Consequently there is plenty of action and a wide range of settings, with no long speech sequences. Songs are tuneful and set you humming. They are very well recorded."

Mr. Levy expects to show his pictures here in the near future, probably sometime next week, although the venue has not yet been decided on. In case any of my readers should be scared because the dialogue is entirely French, I might point out there is only 25 per cent. dialogue and that in any case English subtitles have been superimposed.

CONTINUITY OF POLICY

MR. CHAMBERLAIN AND OTTAWA

ARGUES AGAINST FREE WILL

London, Nov. 3. The old and hackneyed arguments for and against Protection were raked up to-night during the final debate on the Ottawa Agreements Bill.

The House of Commons was provided for the discussion, but the Opposition were overwhelmed. The third reading of the Bill was approved by 418 votes to 68. The only interesting feature of the discussion was the stress laid by Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the necessity for continuity of policy.

RETURNS TO OLD SUBJECT.

Mr. Chamberlain returned to the subject raised by the Labour Party yesterday when they sought to insert a new clause providing that nothing in the Bill should prevent a reduction of the general ad valorem rate of ten per cent. It will be recalled that Mr. Horre-Belisha, the Government spokesman, declared that the new clause was unnecessary and took the line that there was nothing to prevent any new Government from abandoning the whole of the Ottawa Agreements if they chose.

LIBERTY RESTRICTION.

Mr. Neville Chamberlain disagreed with Mr. Horre-Belisha on this point. He insisted upon continuity of policy and argued that it would be no breach of the Constitution that a new government, wishing to change the Ottawa Agreements, should have to wait two years or so for their expiration.

The Empire, he said, could rightly rely upon continuity of policy, which must be maintained if Britain was to retain respect. Although Parliament was entitled to alter the duties, it was extremely unlikely that it would do so.

THREE EUROPEANS FINED

TRAFFIC OFFENDERS IN COURT

A heavy fine was imposed by Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning on Mr. A. Reinecke who was convicted on a summons accusing him of driving a motor car in a manner dangerous to the public in Lower Albert Road on the morning of October 14th.

Mr. T. H. King, (Deputy Superintendent of Police) prosecuted and said the defendant was driving his car past the Scout's Headquarters towards the Colonial Secretary's Office. In front was a Public Works Department lorry and the complainant himself was going from the lower Peak tram station to the Central Police Station. Before the police car had reached the C.S.O. entrance, it had to be stopped dead to avoid an accident, as the defendant had shot out from behind the lorry and passed at a speed faster than was safe. The defendant did not dispute the facts, but said he did not consider he was driving dangerously. A conviction was registered and a fine of $40 imposed.

On a summons alleging that he had passed a stationary tramcar on the left in Shaokwan Road, Mr. W. R. Col was fined $5 by his Worship, while a fine of $10 was imposed on Mr. J. R. R. Coupland, of Messrs. Reiss Massey, for driving a car without a licence.

Miss Lee played "Prelude in A Minor," "Dallied in G minor," "Etude de Concert," "Theme and Variations." Mr. Anderson sang "Eleanor," "Bird Song at Eventide," "The Sun God," and "Oh! Virgin Rose."

Mrs. F. Griggs and Mr. G. W. True were the accompanists.

NEWSPAPER SUES AGENCY

CLAIM FOLLOWING LIBEL DAMAGES

A rather novel claim was contained in the list at the Court of Summary Jurisdiction before Mr. Justice Wood this morning when an action for $1,000 was brought by Mr. Lo Kit, proprietor of the Chinese newspaper, The Nam Yat Po, of 53, Hollywood Road, against the Chinese Journalist Association, of 50 Wyndham Street, and Mr. Kwan Cho-Poh, of the same address.

The claim stated that defendants as a News Agency had supplied plaintiffs with an item of news relating to the failure of a big Californian firm of merchants which the plaintiffs, believing to be true, published on May 27, 1932.

The news turned out to be untrue, and in consequence of their having published the matter, the plaintiffs were sued for libel and suffered damages. In view of this, plaintiffs claimed $1,000 damages made up of the cost of settlement of the action brought against plaintiffs for the libel, and the cost of publishing an apology in the newspaper for three months, as a term of settlement, at $150 a month.

Mr. H. Lo, of Messrs. Lo and Lo, appeared for the plaintiffs, and it transpired that the second defendant was away from the Colony and had not been served. The case was adjourned sine die.

Mr. W. C. Hung, of Messrs. Lo and Lo, appeared for the defendant Association.

FORMER WOOSUNG COMMANDER

GENERAL ARRIVES IN COLONY

General Oong Chiao-yuan, XIXth Route Army officer and Woosung Garrison Commander in Shanghai during the Sino-Japanese hostilities in the early part of this year, together with a few other officers, arrived this morning by the President Madison and were accorded a big welcome by prominent Chinese residents and members of various institutions.

General Oong is en route to Manila and will leave to-morrow on the same boat. After visiting Manila he will proceed to Saigon, Straits Settlements, San Francisco and probably England and Europe. Many receptions have been arranged in his honour including a tiffin party at the To Yuan Restaurant, a tea party at the Gloucester Building at three o'clock, given by three hundred Chaochow merchants, and another reception at 5.30 at the Cecil Hotel by prominent Chinese residents. General Oong is a native of Chaochow.

In a brief conversation with the Press, the General said that his trip would extend six months, and his visits were being made solely for the purpose of acknowledging the various donations made by overseas Chinese to the XIXth Route Army.

SHIP'S CAPTAIN FINED

JAPANESE VESSEL OVERLOADED

Convicted on a charge of having overloaded his vessel, Captain Y. Okada, master of the s.s. Hiroshi Maru No. 3, was fined $100 by the Hon. Comdr. Hoie, at the Marine Court this morning.

Boarding Officer A. G. Cooke, prosecuting, said that about 8.25 a.m. yesterday he examined the disc of the Hiroshi Maru and found that the top of the line of the port disc was awash, and the centre of the starboard disc submerged in about four inches of water. A Chinese coxswain of the launch corroborated this evidence. The accused said that when the steamer came into port about 8.25 a.m. yesterday she was "trimmed" about five inches by the head as her port side was heavy. She had been "trimmed" by the head from the time they left Keelung, and although he had done his best to right her horizontal the vessel had been heeling to the starboard all throughout the voyage. He inspected the disc and found that it was submerged about two inches on the starboard side, but it was below the water line on the port side.

H.M. submarine Ostia's dance is to be held at the Garrison Lecture Hall to-night, commencing at 8.30 p.m. The Lincolnshire band will be in attendance.

George Jones, the son of a soldier quartered in Kennedy Road, was admitted to hospital yesterday for treatment in consequence of his being bitten by a dog.

HARBOUR TRAGEDY FEARED

MOTHER & DAUGHTER MISSING

Grave fears are entertained by the police for the safety of two women, mother and daughter, comprising the crew of a sampan, who have disappeared from their craft at Laichikok. They have vanished without a trace, and foul play is suspected by the fact that jewellery and money, which they are known to have possessed, are also missing.

A young boatwoman, named Ho Cho-mul, friend of the missing women, first communicated her fears to the police and this caused them to drag the harbour bed this morning in the expectation of bringing their bodies to the surface.

Ho Cho-mul told the police that she last saw the two women as they pulled out from Shamshuiho taking two men who desired to be put alongside a junk off Cheung-shawan. At least that was what she heard the two men tell the women when they set out shortly after nine o'clock last night.

Three hours later, the boat had not returned, and, becoming anxious, Ho Cho-mul set out in her own boat, on a search. She discovered the missing sampan drifting aimlessly off Laichikok. It was empty. Of the two women, there was no sign.

The crewless boat was towed back to Yauwatti, and searched by the police. Signs of a struggle were apparent, while certain trinkets owned by the two women could not be found.

A FURTHER REMAND GRANTED

Appearing for Lau Kau, a clerk formerly employed at Messrs. Thomas Cook & Son's office, who is charged with embezzlement of $13,253, Mr. H.K. Mr. Lee said he understood that his client had made certain admissions. Detective Sergeant Byron did not oppose the application, and the case was again adjourned for a week.

LAY'S FIERCE HITTING

CLOCK RACED AT K.C.C.

LEAGUE MATCHES TO-MORROW

(By "The Stumper")

AFTER all that has been written on the Army-K.C.C. match last Saturday, it would be useless to dwell too long on this game in my notes this week. Suffice to say the Peninsula team won and fully deserved the points, if only for the stout-hearted manner in which they set about the task of making 174 runs in about 90 minutes. What has been described as a magnificent innings by A. T. Lay made this achievement possible and to him more than to anybody else the credit was due.

IN the absence of F. Goodwin who strained a muscle during the week, E. C. Finch, deputised as skipper of the K.C.C. and more than contributed his quota with a steady innings for 62. He was completely overshadowed by Lay, whilst they were together at the wicket but in his unobtrusive way, "Teddy" was playing his part, and helped Lay to put up 103 for the first wicket. He gave one chance fairly early to Capt. Wales at mid-off, but apart from this flaw, his innings was unblemished.

I AM given to understand that the game commenced 33 minutes late and ended up at about 5.50 p.m. This alone gives a fairly good idea of the astounding rate of scoring. The Army bowlers, to my mind, were definitely weak, despite the return of Lieut. A. H. Munn to the side. If Lieut. Hamilton had turned out to do duty for the Army on the cricket field instead of preferring to score tries at rugby, I feel sure the K.C.C. could not have won.

THE only other League encounter during the afternoon was that between the Police R.C. and the Civil Service C.C. 2nd XI on the former's ground. The guardians of the peace scored another creditable victory and look like making a bid for championship honours this season. In T. R. Hunter, they have a bowler who will win many matches for them, but I doubt if they will be good enough to win the title, although I have not forgotten that in their first official game, they defeated the champions.

THE Civil Service Juniors looked quite strong on paper, but their batsmen failed against Hunter, and only Barrow, who has been playing cricket in better company, put up any resistance. His effort was unavailing, however, and the side was defeated by six wickets. If only that Ling is leading the team and should be a definite asset as a medium-to-fast left hand bowler.

TO-morrow will see the senior champions in action. They will travel to Happy Valley where the Civil Service C.C. will provide the opposition. I have been rather impressed by their bowling and fielding in recent matches although I cannot say the same as regards their batting, which is rather uncertain. The Civil Servants are fielding their strongest side, and a good game should be seen, although I favour the chances of Valley Hall and New King, who are running at 105 lbs and 160 lbs respectively. Other ponies which may do anything are Valenta, Pienfongshan, City of Shanghai, The Crook, Estrellita and Banjolina.

A GOOD game should be seen on the Hongkong C.C. ground where the United Services will meet the Club. The fact that it is only a half-day game may rob the match of much of its interest, but all the same I anticipate some good cricket. The Kowloon C.C. will visit Craigengower C.C. in a friendly match and there should be some tall scoring.

IN the Junior League, the only game I know is that between the R.A.S.C. and the Indian R.C. on the military ground at Sookunpoo. The champions should collect the points. There are also several interesting friendlies on the programme.

LOCAL cricketers may be interested in Bradman's opinion of the M.C.C. XI in Australia. "England is going to see how shock-fast bowlers can dispose of Australia's best batsmen," he declared. He expressed surprise at the selection of some of the English players, and thought that the English selectors had been dropping Frank Woolley, whom he considered to be still the world's best left-hander. He added that although he prophesied some time ago that England would recover the Ashes, he was now more optimistic. "If you see the name of 'Eleven' in Australia," he remarked, "in America he improved beyond all knowledge as a bowler, developing phenomenal finger-spin."

Interport Soccer Selectors Make Another Attempt to Discover Ideal Team

MARTIN PERSISTED WITH BUT SEVERAL OTHER CHANGES ARE EFFECTED

Where Were the Reserves Last Wednesday: League Games

(By "VERITAS").

Three interesting matches are down for decision in the first division of the football league to-morrow, the prospective results of which offer some speculation.

South China make a re-appearance at Caroline Hill where they entertain the Club, whilst the Lincolns, following upon their reverse against the Saints last week, journey to Sookunpoo to contest the Royal Artillery, one of the best all-round teams in the league. The third tie of interest is that between Kowloon and the Navy on the former's enclosure.

CLUB CHANGES.

Strange, kept out of the team last week and in the Interport trial on Wednesday through a slight foot injury, returns to the Club side, but this time at centre-half. Revolutionary changes if you like! Desmond Hynes, who played such a brilliant game at left back against the Artillery, is retaining this position and accompanies Martin in the last but one line of defence.

Manning, Ralton and George Duncan go out of the team, to allow Donovan to return to inside right and Williams to take the right wing. Skinner moves from the pivotal position to right half. If Strange can be as constructive as he is spoiling I think he will prove a decided acquisition at centre-half, and possibly Skinner will find the wing more to his liking, although he is assured of a pretty busy afternoon looking after Ip Pak-wah.

Outside of a firmer half back line, the Club's great need is a goal scoring forward, and I feel that the transference of Williams to the wing is robbing them of this acquisition. If, however, Howe can infuse a little more spirit into his work he may find opportunity for turning to good account the openings of his wingmen.

REJUVENATED KOWLOON.

Kowloon, after their runaway success against the Recreation last week, are making no changes for to-morrow, but it is pretty certain they will be up against a stiff proposition for with the China fleet now in port, the Navy should be in the position to field an exceptionally strong side.

The most encouraging feature about Kowloon's rejuvenation last Saturday was the marked improvement among the halves. Watkins' return meant an all-round tightening up, and both Bliss and McKelvie appeared in spired by the standard he set. Bickford, too, is making a distinct difference to the forward line, affording Nelema more opportunity of scoring.

What should be one of the best matches of the day is that between the Royal Artillery and the Lincolns. The Artillery have so far enjoyed a good measure of success, and unless the Lincolns improve upon their finishing of last week, they will suffer their second reverse.

The Artillery literally made rings round the Club at intervals, and their forwards have a "punch" which is sufficient to worry any defence. The Lincolns will have to watch Bryant, Seal and More, who are among the liveliest attackers in local football.

WERE WERE THE RESERVES?

I commented fairly fully on the Interport trial in yesterday's Telegraph, and there is little to add, beyond the fact that it seemed peculiar that of the four reserves originally picked for the trial team, only one turned out to take his place among the three vacancies caused by the exclusion of Strange, Barber and Cheng Sui-hong. Neither B. Gosano, Dominy or Bliss made an appearance. Of course it is possible that the selectors were forced to call out Beltrao and E. Strange. In which case the players are to blame, for if they are selected as reserves for an important trial, they should do their utmost to be present should their services be needed.

If, however, the selectors deliberately ignored Bliss and Dominy, their action is, to say the least, somewhat incomprehensible. Surely E. Strange, talented and promising a footballer as he is, is not seriously considered by the selectors as a probable, or even a possible, for this year's Interport team? And even if they do, what is the use of putting him at outside right, when his position is inside left?

Although Beltrao has certain claims for a trial, I rather think the selectors would have received more assistance if they had brought in Bliss.

MULLANES MUST.

The selectors' task, however, is to find a balanced team, where reserve team work is given preference to individual brilliance. Judging from the results of their meeting immediately following upon the match, the selectors were not at all satisfied with the form of their nominees, and next Tuesday will see some new personnel when a further trial match is to be staged. The latest team is:

Rodger (Club); Martin and Strange (Club); Bliss (Kowloon), Barber (Lincolns), A. Duncan (Club); B. Gosano (St. Joseph's), Wong Mee-shun (S.C.A.A.), Johnson (Police), Suen Kam-shun (C.A.A.), and Baldry (Lincolns), with the following reserves: Mullane (S.W.B.), Beltrao (St. Joseph's) and Jones (Borderers).

WHY MARTIN?

It is difficult to read the mind of the selectors, and therefore one finds it impossible to tell whether they have dropped Mullane because they are satisfied that he is certain of his place, or whether they feel he has not proved himself. But whichever it is, I can see no reason why they persist in playing Martin at this stage of the trial. So far he has given no indication of being up to Interport requirements and the fact that he partners Strange in the Club team is hardly sufficient to justify this continual inclusion when other players with stronger claims are available.

The selection of Wong Mee-shun is welcome, although if he is a serious candidate I wonder if it has been ascertained whether he will be available to make the trip? An entirely new recruit, Suen Kam-shun from Chinese Athletic, and his display will be watched with keen interest for it seems that he is Jones's chief obstacle for inclusion.

FRIENDLY HOCKEY.

Police and Y.M.C.A. Play Drawn Match.

Two friendly hockey matches were played at King's Park yesterday, the Police and the Y.M.C.A. being engaged in a drawn game and the Central British Association beating the German Club four goals to nil. The match between the Y.M.C.A. and the Police was played on the former's ground, a considerably curtailed game, to be late start causing the Y.M.C.A. team to field only eight players and later had nine, while the Y.M.C.A. team fielded only 10 throughout. Each side registered a goal in the first half. G. C. Burnett scored for the Y.M.C.A. and Perkins for the Police. The Central British Association ground the home team entertained the German Club which tried out several new players. The visitors were no match for their superior opponents and went down to the tune of four clear goals.

The Shum Chun Handicap finds a fair entry list, of which Workable Stag and Akax are the pick. Powhatan, Wonderful Stag and Indiana all possess good records and might cause an upset if anything untoward happens to either of the two ponies already mentioned.

The Fanling Handicap, because of the very heavy entry is made the most difficult race of the afternoon over which to pronounce, but the handicapper has done his job well, and of the big field I rather like the chances of Valley Hall and New King, who are running at 105 lbs and 160 lbs respectively. Other ponies which may do anything are Valenta, Pienfongshan, City of Shanghai, The Crook, Estrellita and Banjolina.

Racing Boy is almost a "cert" for the Sub-Griffins St. Leger, for it has proved that it can run the same race from 6 furlongs up to almost any distance. Cy-Pres, which is weighted one pound more than Racing Boy will offer a challenge to the favourite, but I still feel that whoever Racing Boy is, Cy-Pres will be behind it.

Chiu Quan is an excellent little pony and at the moment is running extremely well. In my opinion it is a good chance for some sound place-betting.

The final race, the Tai Po Handicap, finds Adam enjoying the confidence of many astute race-goers and I think it has a splendid chance to win. King's Parade will be a danger to it, whilst Wakefield and Gold Bar are ponies which have done a lot of racing in Hongkong and offer some speculation.

Royal Flush and Cabinet Hall may possibly figure in the betting for places.

THE Hongkong St. Leger, the fourth event of the afternoon is, of course, the principle item on the programme, and everybody is rather worked up about it because of the entry of Liberty Bay, which has never yet failed to win any event in which it has been started. Consequently the pony is a raging favourite and personally I fall to see how it can be beaten. On the other hand Wild Life has been putting in some excellent training gallops and also ran well, you will remember, at Macao. Navy Hall and Blue Star are the other two entrants, and I think the latter stands a fair chance for third place.

The Fanling Handicap, because of the very heavy entry is made the most difficult race of the afternoon over which to pronounce, but the handicapper has done his job well, and of the big field I rather like the chances of Valley Hall and New King, who are running at 105 lbs and 160 lbs respectively. ANOTHER HOCKEY INNOVATION

INTERPORTS FOR THE FUTURE?

(By "Bully-Off")

IT has just come to my notice through the secretary of the Mamak Shield Competition, Mr. E. V. Marshall, that early in the New Year, provided sufficient support is forthcoming, a Hockey Festival, to take the form of a knock-out competition, will be held. The event will be open to all clubs in the Colony and should be welcomed by all enthusiasts for it will provide yet another opportunity for players to improve their game by competitive hockey. The chief difficulty, I am given to understand, will be in the matter of grounds, but I feel sure all Clubs with their own grounds will co-operate and so overcome this difficulty. A special committee will be formed to manage the competition for which a silver cup is to be presented.

A great deal of credit is due to the committee of the Mamak Shield competition for their part in the furtherance of the sport in the Colony, and if their hopes are realised a match between Macao and a team selected from Clubs competing in the competition will take place in the near future. Unfortunately, by confining the team to players registered in the Mamak competition only, the Colony's strongest side will not be available, but the fixture is indeed a step in the right direction and may lead to a successful rectangular Interport competition between Hongkong, Macao, Canton and Shanghai in the near future.

Intimated last week the Medway Mamak team would make an impressive debut in the competition, and on Wednesday they registered a win of five clear goals against the R.A.S.C. at Happy Valley. They fielded a very strong combination and kept their opponents continually on the defensive. They were led by M. Hawgood who was always a menace to the R.A.O.C. defence and who received full measure of support from his inside men, Robertson and Lewis, while V. Noseworthy, on the right flank, proved himself a past master in the art of accurate centres. The team should do well and offer a sturdy resistance to any of the registered clubs.

THERE is no doubt that the brilliance of O. de Souza, of the Varsity, was responsible for the reverse St. Andrew's suffered in the Mamak competition on Sunday. He played a remarkably good game and in the first half performed the "hat-trick." The result of the match was not altogether unexpected, for the students had run the Incognitos, one of the strongest combinations in the league to an odd goal defeat the previous week.

IN view of the fact that it was their second appearance on grass, the Medway Officers' XI did well to hold the Club to one goal in a friendly game on Wednesday. Both factions fielded strong combinations, although missing from the Club side were W. E. Williams and Rodger. Their exclusion meant a re-shuffling of the forward line and Lay was transferred to centre forward from his usual position at left outside, Divett going to inside right and A. E. P. Guest filling the vacancy on the left. Lowe deputised for Rodger in the defence. A feature of the game was the superb custodianship of Lieut. Higham, of the Medway, and Duncan, who was between the sticks for the Club.

that cow puncher!" Asper settled back in spite of himself and a flush of pain crossed his face.

"Swergin will bring him in," Dona promised.

"When he does Ball is to be brought here. Understand? I have a lot to tell that coyote."

Asper closed his eyes and lay still. Dona sat beside him, a worried frown on her face. He seemed much worse than when she had left him. She hoped Swergin would bring Ball in and end the tension of the situation. Asper drifted into a trouble sleep and Dona walked to the window.

Folly Mountain rose high above and seemed to frown down on the camp. Somehow she did not believe the timber boss would bring Ball in. The man was becoming almost like a mythical character. She had seen flashes of him, had heard the men say they had seen him and she was eager to stand face to face with him.

Her thoughts drifted back over what seemed weeks ago instead of days to the man who had saved her from the thugs who had kidnapped her. She wondered if Stanley Black was riding a near-range. She would have been glad to have gone to him with her troubles just then.

An idea came to her. She would ride to Blind River. At the next chance and see for herself what the situation was. She could inquire there for Stanley Black. This decision made her smile as she thought of Swergin and Dudley. They would both have to be dodged carefully and they would both be angry when she told them where she had gone.

Asper stirred, groaned and Dona returned to his side. He was muttering in his sleep in angry mumbling tones. Suddenly panic struck at Dona's heart. Perhaps she should take him to the city. But would he go? All at once she remembered the marriage certificate that had been signed. If she had to, she would use that, but first she would need to slip away and ride to Blind River. She would have her chance the next morning and she would take it.

O.A.G.'S FLIGHT

MR. AND MRS. SOUTHERN
SEE COLONY FROM AIR

An inspection was made at the civil aerodrome at Kai Tak yesterday afternoon by His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government, the Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, C.M.G., who was accompanied by Mrs. Southern and his A. D. C.

After the inspection Mr. A. V. Hurvy took one of the planes, an A.W.16, aloft, and high above the aerodrome, did a series of "stunts."

Later, His Excellency and Mrs. Southern, at the invitation of Mr. Hurvy, were taken for a flight over the city and the surrounding country in the Cutty Sark amphibian.

Both the Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Southern, on their return to the aerodrome, expressed themselves as delighted with their experience. It is understood that this is the first occasion that either the O.A.G. or Mrs. Southern have flown in an aeroplane.

MISS G. F. BERRIE AND
MR. A. REID

An interesting wedding took place at St. John's Cathedral yesterday afternoon when Miss Gwendolyn Frances Berrie, of Sydney, Australia, became the bride of Mr. Alan Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Reid, of Richmond, Surrey.

The bride was given away by Mr. A. H. Ferguson and looked charming in a dress of ivory satin, with bridal veil trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses and Honolulu creeper.

The matron of honour was Mrs. Stafford Smith, who was dressed in floral silk voile.

The best man was Mr. Eric Bryden.

After the wedding a reception was given at the Hongkong Hotel, where the happy couple were the recipients of congratulations from their many friends.

WATER SERVICE
RESTRICTIONS.TO BE IMPOSED ON MONDAY

With last winter's acute water shortage still fresh in mind, the Government has early taken steps to impose restrictions in order to avoid public inconvenience.

From Monday water will be available only between 6 and 11 a.m. and 4 and 9 p.m.

In an official statement last night on the water position the Government said:

The total water storage of the Colony amounts to 2,703.51 million gallons as against 2,780 million gallons at this time last year. The explanation of the reduced figure this year is to be found in the largely increased consumption, which has risen from a weekly total of 118 m.g. to one of 127.34 m.g. It is not possible to draw increased supplies from Shing Mun before next wet season, and it is not probable that there will be any effective rainfall during the coming dry season. It is obvious therefore that restriction of some kind must be enforced if the supplies are to be depended upon to hold out against a possible failure of the earlier Spring rains.

It is considered that a comparatively slight restriction enforced from the early stages will bear less hardly on the community than a full supply for the time being with severe restrictions to follow.

Hoarding Unnecessary.

It is proposed therefore to make restrictions from Monday November 7 in a manner which should interfere as little as possible with the daily life of any section of the community and which will make hoarding of any kind unnecessary. But the co-operation of every individual is called for to prevent waste in the smallest degree, and to make it possible to carry through to next wet season with no increase in the restriction.

The restriction now imposed applies to the whole Colony, and a special word of caution is called for. The condition of this year, with the complete abolition of the rider main system and the consequent restriction of the whole Colony in the early stages, are new, and the result of the experiment has yet to be awaited. The possibility of further restrictions must always be kept in mind, and it will depend on the efforts of individual consumers whether or not they will be called for.

WUCHOW BOAT SUNK.

FORMER H.K. WUCHOW VESSEL

A thick fog is alleged to be the cause of disaster to the well-known Canton-Vuchow passenger and cargo steamer, the s.s. Kwok Tai, a Chinese owned vessel flying the Chinese flag.

On Tuesday morning the vessel struck a rock and foundered at Samsui.

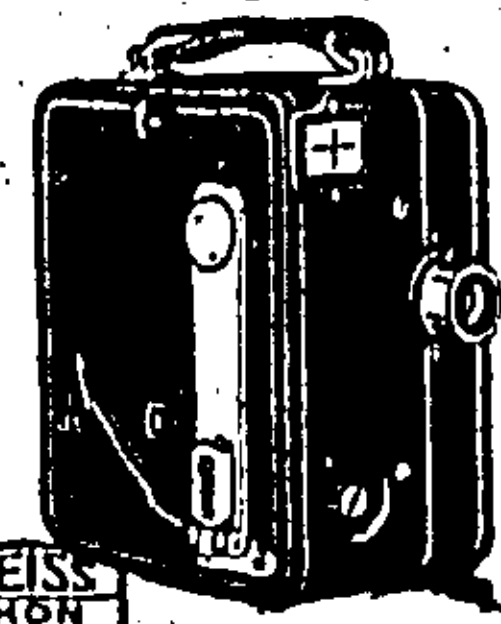

The s.s. Kwok Tai was on its way back to Canton from Wuchow carrying a number of passengers and a full cargo. The place where the vessel met with the mishap is Ma Chau.

The steamer was holed and water was coming in, but the officers had the presence of mind to rush her to Ma Hau, where sampans which were waiting to carry passengers to their destination, were able to take off all on board. There was no time to look after the cargo, which was estimated at over $100,000.

The steamer now lies fully submerged, save the funnels. Reports here have been circulated by the Samsui customs authorities to all steamers on the route, so that care may be exercised in passing the scene of the accident.

The s.s. Kwok Tai is a sister vessel to s.s. Man On, another Canton-Wuchow steamer. The s.s. Kwok Tai was formerly known as the s.s. Sai Fu. For some time she traded between Hongkong and Wuchow.

BRITAIN'S NEW LOAN

LISTS CLOSED IN 3 HOURS

BUT GOVERNMENT STOCKS FALL

London, Nov. 3.

The subscription lists for the new £300,000,000 three per cent. conversion loan, which opened at nine o'clock this morning, were closed three and a quarter hours later.

It is understood that the loan has been largely oversubscribed.

Although the lists had been closed, investors were still able to subscribe through the Post Office. Such applications were, however, limited to £1,000 each but were assured of full allotment provided they were lodged some time today.

The success of to-day's issue completes the remarkable re-financing programme which started a little over four months ago. Beginning with £2,000,000,000 of five per cent. war loan, Britain's internal indebtedness has been cleared of all issues carrying interest excessively high under the existing conditions.

In the Commons this afternoon, the Chancellor of Exchequer, in reply to a question, stated that the estimated saving due to the conversion operations was something over £38,000,000 annually in a full year.

British Government stocks opened with a weaker tendency to-day after the substantial rises which followed the announcement of the loan. There was a rally when lists were closed but profit taking accounted for later falls. War loan ascended closed at 99½, Consols 2½½ at 77 and Consols 4½ at 108½.—British Wireless.

Lady Kelly, wife of the Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Sir Howard Kelly, arrived here this morning from Shanghai aboard the P. and O. liner Rajputana, accompanied by her daughter.

CHANGCHUN BOMB RUMOURS

ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF PU YI

YOUNG WOMAN ARRESTED

Peking, Nov. 4.

Sensational rumours concerning an attempt on the life of Henry Pu Yi, the former Manchu Emperor and now head of the Manchukuo Government at Changchun, also suggesting the arrest of the alleged assassin, a young Chinese woman student, have come to hand from Changchun.

Official circles in Peking incline to believe the reports and suggest that Manchukuo authorities have attempted to suppress the news regarding the attempted assassination, which took place some days ago. It first came to light when Manchukuo authorities arrested the young woman student, who is about twenty years old, and who is now said to be in prison awaiting her trial.

It is understood that the woman threw a bomb which failed to explode.—Special.

The Prime Minister announced today that the House of Commons debate on international affairs would take place next Thursday.—British Wireless.

Another of the delightful series of symphonic concertos is to be given by the Peninsula Hotel on Sunday next, the programme of which comprises an interesting selection of instrumental compositions that will no doubt afford listeners a pleasant evening's entertainment. Further particulars are contained in to-day's advertisement columns.

ON SAFARI AGAIN

HUNT TRIP BY DUKE OF GLOUCESTER

London, Nov. 3.

The Duke of Gloucester, the King's third son, will leave England shortly after Christmas for a shooting trip in the Sudan.

He will be away from England for two or three months. The Duke is a Captain in the 10th Hussars and the trip will be taken during a normal period of leave.

He has made two earlier hunting expeditions to Africa. In 1928 he accompanied the Prince of Wales on safari in East and South Africa when the expedition was interrupted on account of the King's illness.

In 1930, after representing the King at the Coronation of the King of Abyssinia, he spent some time hunting in that country.

The present trip will be of an unofficial nature, unaccompanied by ceremonial. He will probably pay a short private visit to Khartoum as the guest of Sir John Maffey, the Governor-General of the Sudan. Captain Brook, the well-known big game hunter and Extra Equerry will accompany the Duke.—British Wireless.

ANGLO-GERMAN TREATY

VIOLATION ISSUE RAISED

London, Nov. 3.

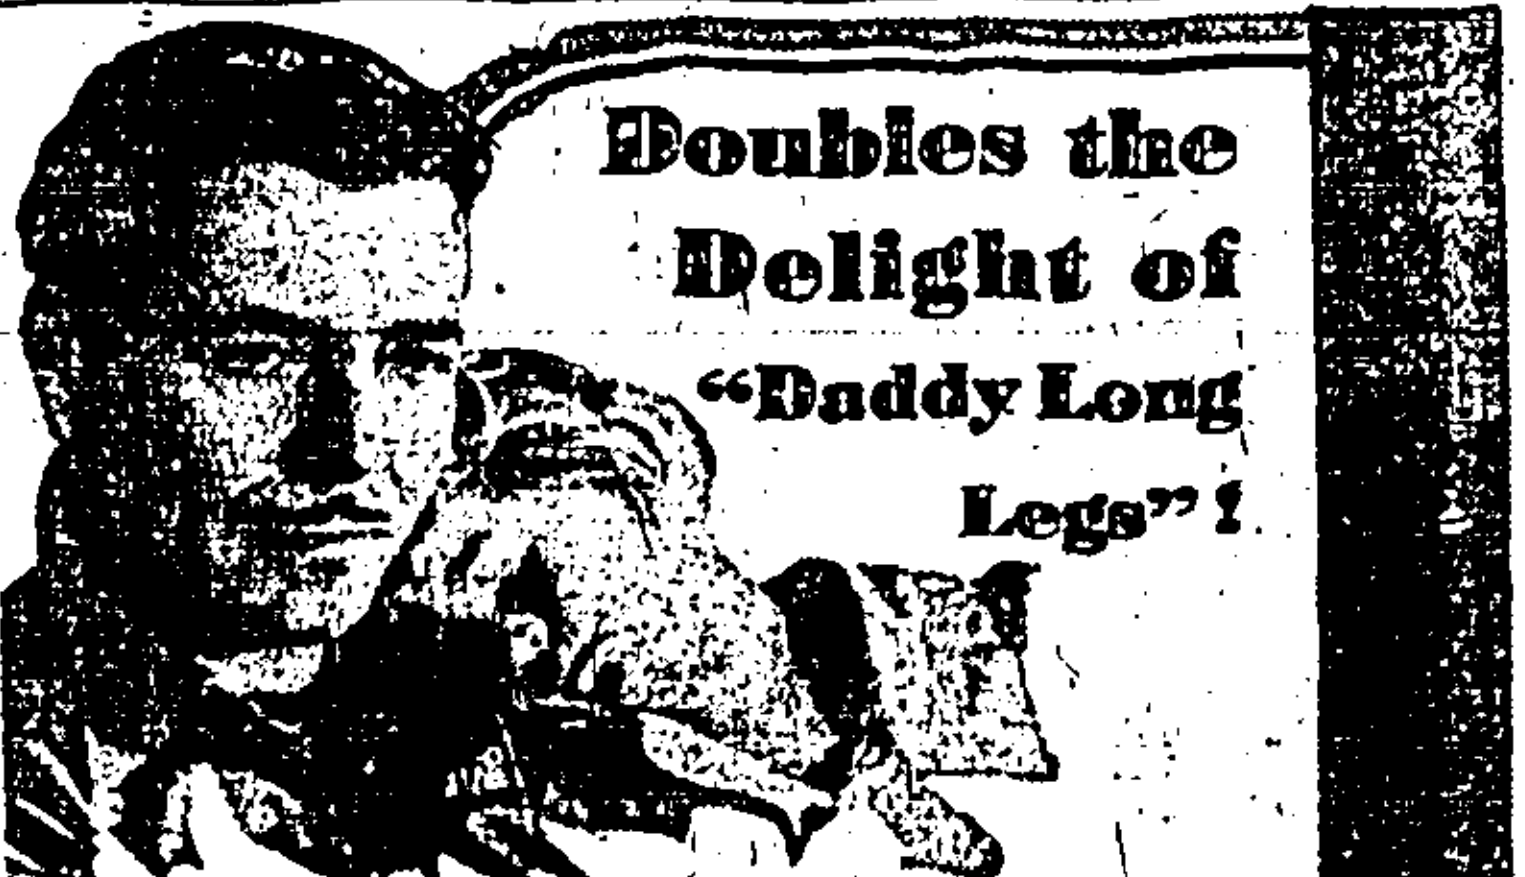

The British Government will send a delegation to Berlin within the next four or five weeks to discuss coal quota questions, and also whether certain import duties constitute a violation of the Anglo-German Commercial Treaty of 1925.

The composition of the delegation is not yet settled.—British Wireless.
